LaFollette Spurs New 'Progressive' Drive

THIRD PARTY ANNOUNCED BY 'OLD BOB'S' SON

Wisconsin Governor Goes to Iowa for Address After Outlining Aims.

SEEKS 'WEALTH BY WORK'

Claims Both Old Parties Have 'Fumbled Ball,' and Scores Philosophy of Scarcity.

MADISON, Wis.—Governor Philip F. LaFollette headed into the Iowa corn belt today in a swift move to spread the doctrine of his new national party designed to "multiply wealth by hard work."

Shortly after launching the "National Progressives of America" before 5,000 cheering adherents here Gov. LaFollette left to make a radio address at Des Moines today.

Other talks have already been scheduled with the apparent idea of a full campaign to organize the party speedily and win a showing in the congressional elections this fall.

Silent on Own Ambitions.

Although self-acknowledged leader of the party for the time being, at least, LaFollette made known no personal ambitions.

Gov. La Follette, widening a breach with President Roosevelt, junked political theories of other parties and set the course of his new party in this direction:

"Definitely and irrevocably we are in the lists to stay until the American people recapture their heritage."

This heritage he defined as the right of every American "to earn his living by the sweat of his brow," security "founded on a definite, decent annual income for all" and freedom of conscience.

For Public Control of Money.

To attain these ends, La Follette declared for public, and not private, control and ownership of money and credit, "without qualification or reservation," a staunch defense of the "basic concepts of American government, and, in particular, that grants of power should always be safeguarded against abuse."

Flatly the governor opposed

Announce Route For Pioneer Day Parade Monday

A parade that is expected to be two miles long will move in a circular route through downtown Mansfield Monday afternoon as the city and county observe the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Northwest territory, it was announced today.

Starting at 2 p. m. from Park Avenue west and Bowman street, the parade will move to Central park, circle the park, then head north on Main street to Fourth street, west on Fourth to Mulberry, south on Mulberry to Park avenue and then back to the park where it will disband.

Approximately 30 floats had been entered in the parade today, and in the event the line of floats and marching units becomes too long, the route will be extended west on Fourth street to Bowman street and then back to the park over Bowman and Park avenue, Glenn L. Bierly, chairman of the parade committee, said.

During the Monday afternoon ceremonies, all county and city offices and schools will be closed, but stores in the city will remain open all day.

A short program of speaking and music will be held at Central park after the parade and it will be followed by a pioneer dinner at the First M. E. church at 6 p. m. The dinner will be open to the public, with reservations at 75 cents each. Persons attending the dinner will have seats reserved for them at the fairgrounds for the pageant at 8 p. m., committee members promised.

BANS NAZI FLAG

Bund Leader Says Emblem Won't Be Shown At Meetings.

NEW YORK — (AP) — James Wheeler-Hill, national secretary of the German-American bund and head of the New York unit, announced today that the German national emblem—the Nazi flag—no longer will be displayed at bund meetings.

Duffy Requests U. S. Aid In 'Shakedown' Investigation

My, My, How Time Flies!

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The earth is about 12,000,000,000 years older than previously supposed, two Yale university scientists said today.

Dr. Alois F. Kovarik and Dr. N. I. Adams, jr., said that by a new method of calculating elemental changes they had found that previous estimates of the earth's age were far too conservative.

The old determinations indicated that the earth was somewhere between 300,000,000 and 1,850,000,000 years old. The new determination, however, fixes the age at 13,900,000,000 years.

$200,000 HIGH SCHOOL URGED FOR TOWNSHIPS

County Board Ready to Submit Plans as Butler Wins Fight to Keep Open.

While Butler township residents apparently had won a temporary victory today in their fight to keep their high school, the county board of education was ready to submit a plan for a new $200,000 high school building to serve a four-township area in the northern section of the county.

Boyd Robinson, county superintendent, said the proposal, which has been under consideration for some time, probably will be presented at a hearing at the courthouse tomorrow afternoon when the county board will seek approval of another step in a county redistricting program.

Meanwhile, the state department of education had approved the continued operation of the Adario high school in Butler township under a first grade charter until plans are worked out for

BATTLE LOOMS

U. S., Other Powers Attack Nazi Decree on Jews.

BERLIN — (INS) — A lengthy legal battle between Nazi Germany and certain foreign governments, particularly the United States, was forecast today in the wake of Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's decree ordering registration of all Jewish wealth.

The difficulties are expected to arise over application of the Nuremberg racial definitions to foreign nationals. Under Goering's decree, Jews living abroad will be compelled to register any property owned in Germany.

Well-informed circles here pointed out that neither the British nor American governments can be expected to admit in principle racial differentiations in their own territory.

NAMES TVA PROBE CLERK

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Donahey, D., Ohio, said today W. O. Hefferman of Ripley, O., had been named official clerk of the joint congressional committee to investigate the TVA.

Tells Cummings Millions In Federal Funds Linked In Campaign Probe.

CALLS 50 WITNESSES

Inquiry to 'Break Wide Open' Soon, Attorney General's Aid Says.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — The aid of U. S. Atty. Gen. Homer S. Cummings was sought today in Ohio Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy's sweeping investigation of charges that state civil service workers were being solicited for Democratic campaign fund contributions.

Duffy telegraphed Cummings that "millions of dollars of federal funds would be involved in any illegal campaign collections."

The federal government contributes to the support of Ohio's unemployment compensation commission administration, the old age pension system and other activities under the social security program.

Predicts Quick 'Break.'

Before Duffy wired Cummings, Will P. Stephenson, chief counsel to Duffy and a director of the fund solicitation inquiry, predicted the inquiry soon would "break wide open."

"I extend to you an invitation to join me in any matter affecting federal funds and assure you of complete co-operation with federal attorneys or investigators designated by you."

Duffy also announced that he had recalled George A. Hurley, an assistant, from Cleveland to augment his investigation staff.

Stephenson, former Ohio supreme court judge, said his forecast of a "break" was based on the voluntary promises of classified workers to testify before a special grand jury called to conduct an inquiry Monday into the solicitation charges.

The grand jury last winter investigated the state parole system under Duffy's direction and never was disbanded. The attorney general recalled the jury to compel seven tax commission employes to answer questions concerning political fund solicitations.

Compares Inquiries.

Stephenson compared the progress of the present inquiry into charges of illegal political practices to the Adams county vote fraud scandal of 1910-11 during which 1,684 electors were disfranchised for accepting money to influence their votes.

Stephenson, then Adams county prosecutor, said that for several weeks that inquiry met with little success, but then a sudden "break" resulted in 2,200 indictments.

Stephenson said that the offers to testify in the current campaign contribution solicitation inquiry appeared to be shaping up in much the same manner as the Adams county investigation and indicated that several hundred civil service employes would appear before the special grand jury. He has prepared subpoenas for 50 witnesses

FIRE CHIEF HURT

Injured at Coshocton In Dash to $10,000 School Fire.

COSHOCTON—(AP)—Fire Chief Earl C. Bell of nearby West Lafayette was injured critically today when his automobile struck a tree as he hastened to Bakersville where a three-room schoolhouse was destroyed by fire. He suffered a skull fracture.

Coshocton County School Supt. J. F. Lautenschlager said that the fire occurred before any pupils arrived for classes. He estimated damage at $10,000.

Roosevelt Departs Today For Trip 'Somewhere on Atlantic'

(Picture on Page 17)

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—After 26 days of toil whipping the New Deal's $4,500,000,000 recovery program into shape, President Roosevelt gave final orders to his lieutenants today and prepared to embark on a brief cruise "somewhere on the Atlantic."

This evening, by special train, Mr. Roosevelt will take his fishing tackle to Charleston, S. C., and there board the new cruiser Philadelphia for a jaunt out to sea that probably will last a week or ten days.

As the president told reporters, after the hours he has put into the recovery program since he returned to Washington from Warm Springs, Ga., on April 3, he wants to get as far away as possible from callers, telephones and the press.

The Philadelphia, one of the new so-called treaty cruisers, was ready to cast off with the president's select fishing party Saturday morning. Mr. Roosevelt said he planned to simply head out into the ocean, stay a few days and then return—leaving the point of his disembarkation and the precise date a mystery.

Among the little coterie of fishermen invited along was "Pat" McKenna, for the past 35 years presidential doorkeeper.

Another White House veteran accompanying the chief executive was Rudolph Forster, executive officer since the turn of the century.

Head of New Third Party

Gov. Philip F. LaFollette of Wisconsin today stood at the head of a new third party movement in the country, after announcing formation of his group in an address last night, embracing a theory of "work for wealth" as opposed to the New Deal philosophy of scarcity. The Wisconsin governor, serving his third term at 40, is following in the footsteps of his father, the late Senator "Bob" LaFollette, who campaigned unsuccessfully for the presidency on a third party ticket in 1924.

Refused County Aid, City Opens Own Stray Dog War

Mayor Calls on Police to 'Clean Up' Town—Says He Has Been Told Dog Wardens 'Too Busy.'

The Mansfield police department today was enlisted by Mayor Claude M. Hunter as he declared war on stray dogs.

After being bogged down with complaints in the past few days about dogs destroying new gardens and flower beds, Hunter said he had gone to Police Chief Meade K. Bates with an order to "clean-up" the town.

Says City 'Infested.'

"The city is literally infested with dogs running at large and destroying property," the mayor said, "and it is a case of having to do something about it."

He said he had called upon the county commissioners a few days ago to have the county dog wardens round up the stray hounds but that the commissioners told him that William Miller and his assistant, Henry Baxter, were "too busy" now in other parts of the county and could not devote their entire time to the city.

Following a meeting with the mayor this morning, Chief Bates warned dog owners to tie up their dogs or face arrest.

He cited the city ordinance that prohibits dogs from running at large in the city at any time and said the entire police force would be instructed to "bring in" the owners of such dogs that were found running loose.

While the law authorizes a police officer to shoot any dog found running at large, Bates said that if the owner cannot be located, the dog warden would be notified to pick the animal up.

BANK ROBBED

Gunman, Posing as Farmer, Gets $700 in Kipton Holdup.

OBERLIN —(AP)— A man masquerading as a farmer held up the Kipton Banking company at the small community of Kipton, southwest of here today and escaped with $700.

C. H. Scott, teller, said he was alone in the front part of the small bank when the man, a basket under his arm, walked in and asked him to change a dollar so he could get 50 pennies.

Scott turned his back to get the change and when he again faced the robber, he was looking into the muzzle of a pistol. Scott said he ran to a back room where H. B. Cook, cashier, was conferring with a customer, Ray Searles of Kipton.

The man took $670 in bills and $30 in cash and ran to his automobile parked outside, Scott told officials.

PROPOSES CUT IN RAIL WAGES

Railroad Association Recommends 15 Per Cent Reduction July 1.

CHICAGO —(AP)— The Association of American Railroads adopted today a resolution under the railway labor act to serve notice of a 15 per cent wage reduction effective July 1 for all classes of labor.

The cut would represent a saving of $250,000,000 annually to member roads, the association said.

The association stated the wage cut was necessary because of loss of revenue and increases in operating costs.

HELD TO JURY

Ashland Hold-up Suspect At Akron Held in Default of Bond.

AKRON—(INS)—Benford Combs, 25, of Ashland, suspect arrested only 20 minutes after the hold-up of the Personal Finance company, was held under $10,000 bond today, awating grand jury action.

He was bound over to the grand jury when he appeared on a robbery charge before Municipal Judge Don Isham. The court entered a plea of not guilty for the defendant.

HUNTER SEEKS DAVEY'S AID ON CROSSINGS

Protests to Governor Extension of Time Granted Railroads by Utilities Commission.

CITES FATAL ACCIDENT

City Given No Hearing, Citizens 'Peeved' at Action, Mayor Writes to Executive.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter today went direct to Gov. Martin L. Davey in his fight to obtain 24-hour protection for the city's unguarded and partially protected grade crossings.

In a letter to the governor, Hunter protested against the six-month extension given the Baltimore and Ohio railroad to comply with an order to install flasher lights at the Bowman street crossing.

Points To 90-day Order.

The mayor's communication cited two fatal accidents that have occurred at grade crossings in the city during unprotected hours. He pointed out that the commission had granted the extension without giving the city a hearing on the matter, after they had previously issued a 90-day order to the railroad.

Hunter wrote the governor that the citizens of Mansfield were "considerably peeved" over the lack of interest on the part of the commission and that he would appreciate the governor's help in obtaining full-time protection.

"I feel that you can be of service to me," the mayor wrote, "in removing one of the obstacles we have encountered in attempting to obtain from the state utilities commission full time protection at our railroad crossings."

Says State Man Is Railroader.

Hunter said he had been informed that H. M. Evans, head of the railroad department of the utilities commission, is an employe of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, and that he is holding the state post while on a leave of absence from the railroad, enabling him to retain his B. & O. seniority rights.

"This being true," the mayor said in his letter, "we cannot hope

BIRTHDAY GIFT!

Jap Planes Kill 1,000 to Honor Emperor's Anniversary.

HANKOW—(INS)—In a devastating air raid to coincide with celebration of Emperor Hirohito's birthday, nearly 1,000 persons were estimated killed by Japanese bombs near Hankow this afternoon.

A gigantic fleet of Nipponese war planes roared over Hanyang, a suburb of this provisional Chinese capital, unleashing death and destruction.

Chinese fighting planes, anticipating the raid, went aloft to beat off the attackers. A spectacular aerial battle followed in which a fleet of 50 Chinese planes brought down 20 of the attackers, according to Chinese military headquarters.

BOY, 13, BURNED

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Harold Clevinger, 13, of London, O., was in a serious condition in Mt. Carmel hospital today with burns suffered when fire destroyed his home north of London.

ENFORCES BAN ON 'PROWLING'

Wilberforce Co-Eds Cannot Go Out After Dark, Prexy Orders.

XENIA—(AP)—A curfew at dusk was enforced today on Wilberforce university co-eds so that "they cannot prowl around the campus, especially the dark corners, any more."

Dr. D. O. Walker said he had advanced the hour from 10 p. m. for the "good of the girls."

"Hereafter they must have somewhere to go before they can leave their dormitories," he asserted.

The order brought a student protest that was climaxed late yesterday when deputy sheriffs put eight students on trains.

MESSAGE READY

Congress To Get Roosevelt Monopoly, Anti-Trust Views.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— President Roosevelt's long promised special message on monopolistic practices and the workings of the anti-trust laws will be sent to congress this afternoon, he announced today.

The message was being typed, he said, while this morning's press conference was in progress.

FORM MILITARY ALLIANCE TO ACT IN EVENT OF WAR

Agree to Unite Army, Navy, Air Forces, Gather Vast Resources of Foods; Leaders Start Conferences On Central European Problems.

By WEBB MILLER
(UP Staff Correspondent)

LONDON—Great Britain and France, agreed on what amounts to an unwritten military alliance, discussed today the dangerous problems of central Europe that threw them together, allies as they had not been since the end of the World war.

They had agreed on immediate united preparation for war, and, in principle, on complete unity of command and execution in war. They had agreed on the united action of their armies, navies, air forces, and on building up and pooling vast reserves of materials and foods.

In six short hours of negotiation they had done what British and French statesmen had failed to do in nearly 20 years. Their conversations, for their effect on the question of peace or eventual war, constituted one of the most significant movements in European diplomacy since the signing of the Versailles peace treaty.

Details of the agreement remained to be worked out. But is was said in usually reliable quarters that already it was certain that the unwritten alliance would include:

1. Action by the British and French air forces as one unit in event of war.

2. A powerful British bombing fleet to fly at once to pre-arranged French bases in event of war.

3. Establishment of bases in France for British air lines.

Bolster Air Forces.

4. Provision of several squadrons of lightning-fast British Bristol fighting planes for service with the French air force.

5. Creation of a vast joint stock of gasoline for use of the co-ordinated air forces in time of emergency.

6. The French navy to be responsible for policing the Mediterranean while Britain undertakes to police the other seas.

7. Exchange of airplane prototypes belonging to each country so that the combined brains of the air forces may concentrate on the most efficient models.

Studies Food Reserves.

Actual negotiations on the details of the unwritten agreement are expected to start next week in Paris between the general staffs of the British and French air forces, for the air force agreement is the most important feature of the entire conference.

Side by side with the agreement on military action, Britain took independent measures to build up a food reserve against war.

HEAT ROUTED BY VIOLENT STORM

Temperature Skids 34 Degrees After Heavy Rain, Hail Lash County.

A violent storm, which struck the Richland county area at 6 p. m. yesterday, broke an August heat wave and caused minor damage to crops and trees in the northern section of the county.

Lashing the city and county for nearly 30 minutes, the storm brought wind and lightning and a heavy fall of rain and hail.

It struck from the southwest and centered in the Shelby area where leaves were stripped from trees and early garden crops damaged by hail. The mercury dropped 34 degrees immediately after the storm, from a high of 81 yesterday afternoon.

The rainfall, measuring .38 of an inch in Mansfield, was of marked benefit to early crops and gardens, farmers said.

While most of Ohio escaped serious damage from the storm, two persons were killed in southern Michigan when wind of tornadic force struck the Detroit and Flint districts. One man died when he was blown from a truck in which he and his wife and two children were riding. Another victim, William Remsing, 47, of Rockwood, Mich., was struck by lightning.

A half-dozen fires were started in Detroit by lightning.

Fair and cooler weather was predicted for the Mansfield area tonight, and Saturday will be fair and slightly warmer, the forecast said.

SPAIN PROTESTS

Embassy Objects To British-Italian Agreement On Troop Camps.

LONDON —(UP)— The Spanish embassy delivered a note to the foreign office today strongly protesting against Britain's agreement under the British-Italian accord to permit Italian troops to remain in Spain until the end of the civil war

The note said the agreement constitutes "not only an explicit and solemn recognition of Italian intervention but a legitimation of it."

BILL SHELVED

Committee Vote on Wage-Hour Plan Rebuffs Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The powerful house rules committee today rebuffed President Roosevelt by shelving the Norton national minimum wage and maximum hours bill.

The vote was 8 to 6 against putting the bill before the house for a vote.

Friends of the legislation immediately planned to seek a petition signed by 218 house members to discharge the rules committee and call the bill to the floor.

The rules committee decision, however, cast grave doubt on the possibility of the measure being enacted into law before congress adjourns.

PRIEST KILLED

Brooklyn Pastor Dies When Plane Crashes On Solo Flight.

NEW YORK —(UP)— Rev. John Fagin, priest of St. Joseph's Catholic church, Brooklyn, was killed today when the small airplane he was piloting in a solo practice flight crashed at Floyd Bennett airport.

The crash occurred while the priest was attempting to land the small Taylor-cub airplane which he rented for the flight.

Works 2 Years to Build Model Locomotive That Really Runs

Representing two years of patience and the skill of an old-time machinist, a 24-inch model locomotive, patterned after a 90-mile-an-hour giant of the rails, will be exhibited during Mansfield's pioneer day celebration next week.

Despite the fact that it is only a model, the locomotive, built by John K. Sulzer, 29 Chestnut street, will run just like the engines that pull the Pennsylvania's crack Red Arrow after which it was patterned, but instead of steam, its wheels turn under compressed air.

The locomotive will form part of the display symbolizing the progress made in transportation from the time of the founding of the Northwest territory to the present streamlined age.

The display will feature a miniature boat as the first mode of transportation, a covered-wagon, stage coach, the locomotive, a model truck and an airplane. They will be shown in the window of the City Market, 22 South Main street, by George C. Marks, who operates the store.

The engine is modeled to scale after the Pennsylvania's locomotives and represents the finest precision-like workmanship — there's not even a bolt missing and every piece has been turned out on Sulzer's workshop lathe.

It all started years ago, Sulzer says.

"I've always wanted one of those working models, but it was not until about two years ago that I had the chance to begin work on Advertising Club Told Papers Sell More and Will Continue to Sell More Merchandise.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Newspapers have sold and will continue to sell more merchandise than any other medium yet devised, James G. Stahlman, president of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, told the New York Advertising club recently.

"One of the silliest views held by some advertisers," he said, "is that the public is losing its interest in the press and is turning to other media for its information.

"The daily newspapers are still the primary news disseminators, and, likewise, the most powerful agencies of public opinion."

Stahlman said the fact that the daily newspapers of America have a circulation of more than 42,000,000—an all-time high—is "the best answer to loose assertions that reader interest in the press is on the decline.

"The press is still the most powerful agency of opinion in America," he continued.

"It will continue to be that dominating force in the life of our people so long as it justifies its existence by a rigid observance of the obligations and responsibilities placed upon it by the citizenship of the republic."

NITRO BAD ACTOR, RIFLEMAN FINDS

Explosive Found In Yegg's Pocket Blows Up Hillside.

HELENA, Mont.—(U.P.)—The police weren't quite so nonchalant as their burglar-prisoner had been with his nitroglycerin.

When he was arrested after he blew open a drug store safe he carried an ounce bottle of the explosive in his hip pocket.

Gingerly taking it from him, the police explosive experts packed the bottle in a bucket of snow and carried it to an isolated hillside. There the bottle was removed and placed on an old rustetd stove as a target for Patrolman Ingvald Young, expert rifleman.

Young retired as far as the range of his rifle would permit and then fired one shot.

"It appeared as though about half the hillside blew up," Young said.

CLIMALENE

THE LARGEST SELLING WATER SOFTENING CLEANSER ★

CLIMALENE HAS BEEN A LEADER IN CLEANSER SALES FOR 31 YEARS. QUITE A RECORD FOR QUALITY. THAT'S WHY I USE IT REGULARLY, EVERY DAY

● When one cleanser leads in sales in its own field for 31 years it must have quality. CLIMALENE, is such a product. You sprinkle it in water before the soap goes in. You get twice the suds with ½ the soap. And it gives water power to WASH the dirt away!

CLIMALENE cuts grease instantly. White things emerge from the wash snow-white, colors bloom. Glasses, china and silver gleam like new. Tiles, bathtubs and floors shine with a brilliant lustre. And it's economical. Ask your grocer for CLIMALENE.

TAKES CASE TO SUPREME COURT

County, Sued for Damages in Traffic Mishap, Appeals 3-Year-Old Suit.

With the filing of a notice of appeal to the state supreme court, another chapter had been opened today in the $15,000 damage suit brought against Richland county commissioners by the late Mrs. Nora Olds of Lexington.

Submitted in common pleas court by Atty J. V. Will and Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott, counsel for the commissioners, the appeal seeks a re-hearing of the case which has been pending in county and state courts for three years.

A $1,500 judgment against the county, returned last fall by a jury in common pleas court, was upheld by the Fifth district court of appeals three weeks ago and commissioners were instructed to pay the amount to Harry Olds, husband of the plaintiff in the original suit.

In the first hearing of the suit in common pleas court, a verdict was returned for the county. The supreme court later ordered a new trial and the verdict then went to Olds.

Mrs. Olds sought damages for injuries she suffered in an automobile accident near her home, which she contended was caused by a rough county road.

Commissioners were accused of negligence in failing to repair the road.

MUSEUM KEEPS BOTTLE

LANSING, Mich.—(U.P.)—Within the sedate confines of the State Museum here is an empty beer bottle and an opener. Presented to the museum curator as a joke in 1917 by a newspaperman who said it was the last bottle to be opened legally following enactment of Michigan's dry law, it is regarded as an authentic relic.

Cruiser Aboard Which President's Going Fishing

President Roosevelt collected his fishing tackle today and prepared to leave the White House tonight for a brief cruise "somewhere on the Atlantic." A special train will take him to Charleston, S. C., where he will board the 10,000-ton cruiser, the U. S. S. Philadelphia. The cruiser is shown in the above photo with Capt. Jules James, the president's host.

SINO-JAP WAR HALTS WEAVING

NANKING, China—(AP)—Weaving of the famous Nanking tapestries is another ancient Chinese home industry which has ceased to exist since the Sino-Japanese war started.

The war, however, is not entirely to blame. The industry, because of competition with machine-made products, was fast facing extinction before hostilities started last year. The Japanese invasion hastened the process.

FINDS UNUSUAL INDIAN RELICS

Minneapolis Collector Has Headpiece of Medicine Man and Chief of Tribe.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—(U.P.)—Although 78 years old, Dr. John Tallmadge Bergen, Minneapolis, still maintains an avid interest in his hobby, the collection of relics.

Dr. Bergen has contributed many pieces to museums from his collection, which includes a shepherd's knife, a heritage of ancient Egypt, and a German trench helmet from the World War. But many of the more interesting he retains.

Highly prized in his collection of Indian souvenirs is the war headpiece of Geronimo, famous medicine man and chief of the Arizona Chiricahua braves. Geronimo, with only 300 warriors, out-maneuvered the army several months before his capture.

It was while he was in captivity at Fort Sill that Geronimo reformed, became a Christian, and gave his war headpiece to Dr. Bergen.

In the collection also is a more ornate war bonnet given to him by Chief Nahwats of the Comanches in Texas. Reputedly worn by Nahwats while the Comanches were fighting the Texas Rangers in 1870, the headdress consists of nearly 100 gray eagle feathers set in red Mexican velvet, and a heavy beaded headpiece with two horns of a young buffalo.

Although skunk-bone necklaces were rare among Indians, Dr. Bergen has three. Most of Dr. Bergen's relics of Indians were gathered while he was a soldier and minister at Fort Sill, Okla., in the early 1900s.

Christopher Columbus journeyed to Ireland before crossing the Atlantic to check a report that St. Brendan had once sailed across the ocean.

MIRACULOUS RESULTS OF ALBERTY FOOD REPORTED BY THOUSANDS

Unable to Eat Without Pain. Now Enjoying Best of Health

How Mr. G. who for three years was unable to eat without pain, who was ill from attacks of nervousness followed by extreme vomiting and diarrhea, came back to resume the business he had been ordered to abandon, is another startling testimonial to the amazing work of Mrs. Ada Alberty, originator of Alberty Food, a woman whose almost miraculous work in dietetic research has won the praise of thousands.

"I was down to 135," wrote Mr. G., "and ordered to rest in bed when I heard of Alberty Food. I gained 50 pounds in six months." Mr. G. still enjoys the best of health.

STOMACH & INTESTIONAL PAIN SAPPED VITALITY

Before, 113 Lbs. 5 Mos later 126 Lbs.

From Malassimilation to Health on Alberty's Food—Do You Want to Increase Your Weight?

For 15 years, Mrs. B. tried to find something that would increase her weight, strength and vitality. ALBERTY FOOD did the work.

Mail Orders Given Our Prompt and Careful Attention!

Calcium phosphate, when needed in the human body, produces almost unbelievable results. One mother reports that her 4-year-old boy had never walked until after he had been given Alberty Food with its blessed wealth of that life-sustaining element. A Captain of a fire department reported relief from stomach distress and other complications. Others report an increase in weight, strength and vitality. Mrs. E. writes, "I am the woman who last year at this time was desperate—I had given up all desire to live. I heard of Alberty Food. It pulled me out of my condition—the change was like a miracle. I gained 40 pounds in 3 months. Last August I weighed 70 pounds. In six weeks, after taking Alberty Food, I was able to go to the store." Another lady reports great improvement in the health of her father who was 93 years old.

MORE THAN A MILLION CANS OF THIS GREAT CALCIUM CARRYING FOOD HAVE BEEN SOLD!

Alberty Food increases assimilation and changes the body's chemistry. It makes more available the necessary nourishment for those whose digestive powers are weak—regardless of age. Most users report immediate benefits. Provides CALCIUM-PHOSPHORUS balanced with proteins and other organic minerals. 16 mineral elements are essential for nutrition—Alberty Food provides them all, relieves acidity and increases HEMOGLOBIN of the BLOOD. Alberty Food by aiding digestion and increasing the available nourishment, tones up the entire intestinal tract, thus increasing HEALTH, BUILDING RESISTANCE TO DISEASE and bringing better all-around health.

EX-WASHDAY SLAVE TELLS ALL

MAMA, I DON'T SEE HOW THAT LITTLE MRS THOMPSON GETS HER CLOTHES SO MUCH WHITER THAN OURS GOODNESS KNOWS I SCRUB HARD ENOUGH!
AND SHE'S ALWAYS THROUGH SO EARLY I WISH WE KNEW WHAT HER SECRET IS!
WHY, THEY'RE TALKING ABOUT ME!
MRS THOMPSON DOES HER DAILY "GOOD DEED"
NO SECRET ABOUT MY WASH -- I JUST USE THAT NEW "NO-SCRUB" SOAP-- OXYDOL IT SOAKS CLOTHES 4 TO 5 SHADES WHITER-- WITHOUT BOILING OR SCRUBBING AT ALL!
YOU DON'T EVEN TOUCH THE WASHBOARD?
AND YOU SAY IT TAKES ONLY IS MINUTES' SOAKING?
THAT'S RIGHT! I SAID GOOD BYE TO WASHBOARD SLAVERY FOREVER THE DAY I SWITCHED TO OXYDOL. YOU REALLY MUST TRY IT.
.. AND YOU'RE SURE THAT OXYDOL CAN'T HURT WASHABLE COLORS OR HANDS?
ABSOLUTELY! MY WIFE SAYS IT'S A MIRACLE HOW SUCH A SAFE SOAP CAN SOAK CLOTHES SO CLEAN SO FAST!
IT'S TRUE! ONLY IS MINUTES' SIMPLE SOAKING AND THEY'RE WHITE AS SNOW.
LATER
AND DID YOU EVER SEE SUCH FLOODS OF SUDS FROM SUCH A LITTLE SOAP!
THROUGH ALREADY! I'VE NEVER SEEN THE CLOTHES LOOK SO WHITE OR SMELL SO SWEET!
THEY FAIRLY SPARKLE! WAIT TILL THE REST OF THE NEIGHBORHOOD HEARS ABOUT THIS!
GOOD NEWS TRAVELS FAST -AND NEXT WASHDAY ....
ONLY TEN O'CLOCK AND I'M ALL FINISHED -- THANKS TO OXYDOL!
I NEVER DREAMED ANY SOAP COULD GET CLOTHES SO MUCH WHITER!
NO WASHDAY BACKACHE FOR ME TONIGHT!
IT'S A MIRACLE! WHY DIDN'T I TRY OXYDOL BEFORE!

TAKE MY TIP--TRY OXYDOL! YOU'LL BE AMAZED HOW MUCH TIME AND DRUDGERY IT SAVES!

Trade Mark Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

NOW—join the millions of wash-weary women who are finding relief this simple way. Switch to OXYDOL—the new laundry soap discovery that soaks out dirt without scrubbing, without boiling. See white clothes come so white in 15 minutes' soaking that you'll be utterly amazed.

OXYDOL was perfected by the makers of gentle Ivory soap at a cost of over $1,000,000. And does these 4 things:—

(1) Soaks out dirt in 15 minutes without scrubbing or boiling. Even the "tough" spots come white with a few quick rubs. (2) Cuts washing time 25% to 40%, in tub or machine. (3) Gets white clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter, as proved by scientific Tintometer tests. (4) Yet so SAFE that every washable color comes out sparkling, brilliant, fresh! Hands stay soft and white.

OXYDOL is economical, too. Tests showed that one cup of OXYDOL makes as much suds as 3 cupfuls of other soaps tested—including other granulated soaps.

So quit scrubbing your life away. Save time, save work, save MONEY—by switching to OXYDOL. Get a package today at your dealers! Procter & Gamble.

JACOBS BELIEVES MAX'LL BEAT LOUIS, THEN FIGHT BAER.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK — (INS) — First, the Joe Louis match in June in order to take the title. He's more gun-shy than ever. Then Max Baer in September—to keep it and a champion's cut of the $2,000,000 receipts.

This was Joe Jacobs talking very volubly today for his 10 per cent of Max Schmeling's purses here. Abroad, Joseph gets no per cent, but is fortunate, at that. He doesn't have to buy his own ticket at that gate.

Baer knocked Schmeling out five years ago. Had he, Jacobs, seen Baer beat Tommy Farr recently; yes, that's why Schmeling was going to meet Baer in September. Even winning against Farr, Baer showed that he wasn't nearly as good as he was five years ago. Schmeling is much better.

"He was never like he is now," said Jacobs, who returned yesterday from Germany, where he witnessed Schmeling's knockout of Steve Dudas in the fifth round. "He used to fight once, or at the most, twice a year. But now he's had three fights in the last four months and the result is a Schmeling that I've never seen before—and I ought to know him.

"Louis won't last ten rounds this time. Why, chumperoos like Mann and Thomas had him cross-eyed with right hands. Can you imagine Thomas hurting anybody with a right?

"The fight will bring in all the place will hold, well over a million dollars at the top price of $30. I give two millions to Baer and Schmeling for two reasons: the Jewish-German angle for one and Baer's former knockout of Schmeling, for another."

Feller In Box

Attempts to Make It Third Straight of Season Against Browns Today.

ST. LOUIS—(U.P.)—Bob Feller, the Iowa farm boy who skyrocketed to baseball fame as the result of a blazing fast ball, today passed from the ranks of a "Sunday pitcher."

After Feller startled the baseball world by his performances late in 1936 and through the spring of 1937, the youngster became the greatest gate attraction since Babe Ruth and the Cleveland management took full advantage of his "box office appeal" for spotting him in Sunday games.

Seeks Third Win.

When Oscar Vitt took over the managerial job this spring he said Feller would work in his regular turn and to prove the contention the Indian pilot was to start the young fire-baller against the St. Louis Browns here today. This in spite of the fact Cleveland plays at home Sunday against the Detroit Tigers. Feller will be after his third consecutive triumph when he faces the Browns.

The Indians retained their slim hold on first place yesterday when they slugged out an 11 to 6 triumph over St. Louis.

Johnny Allen started in the box for Cleveland and was hit hard in the three and two-thirds innings he worked. Allen was ejected from the game when he protested vigorously a decision on Don Heffner. Denny Galehouse was then rushed to the hill.

Galehouse gave up two hits that enabled the Browns to swell their run total to five and match the counters the Indians had plated in the first, third and fourth rounds. However, after his wobbly start Galehouse settled down and allowed only five hits the remainder of the way.

Keltner Sets Pace.

Cleveland scored three more runs in the sixth and added another trio in the eighth. Leading the Indians 16-hit attack was Rookie Ben Keltner with a triple and a home run.

Calls 'em Now

Recognize this umpire? No? Well, it's the one-time Philadelphia Athletics' pitching star, Eddie Rommel, now an American league umpire. Ed was snapped in Cleveland after umpiring his first game at the plate.

Grove, at 38, Can Still Win Over Yankees

Limits Champs to 5 Hits as Sox Win, 6-1.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Two pitchers, ancient Lefty Grove and young Hal Schumacher, and two batters, young Buddy Lewis and swaggering Joe Medwick, were baseball's main attractions today because of outstanding performances in yesterday's games.

Grove, who at 38, lacks only a month of being the oldest pitcher in the American league, unlimbered his creaking arm and pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 6-1 triumph over the New York Yankees. He yielded only five hits.

Brightens Hopes

Hal Schumacher brightened the New York Giants' hopes in the National league by giving his second brilliant pitching exhibition. He hurled the Terrymen to a 4-2 victory over the Boston Bees, allowing but five hits.

Buddy Lewis, Washington third baseman who is ranked by many as the game's greatest all-round hot corner guardian, slammed home six runs as the Senators triumphed over the Philadelphia Athletics, 7-2, and held their distance half a game behind the pace-setting Cleveland Indians

Joe Medwick, playing his second game of the season for the St. Louis Cardinals after a siege of lumbago hit a triple and a single to lead the Gas Housers to a 5-3 victory over Pittsburgh.

The Pirates' defeat dropped them to second place as the Giants took undisputed hold of the lead as a result of their eighth straight victory, longest winning of the current season. Hank Leiber's homer with two men on in the first inning was the Giants' winning punch.

Bill Lee, notorious for his "one bad inning," had Cincinnati shut out until the ninth and staggered out under fire as Clay Bryant rescued him and enabled the Chicago Cubs to down the Reds 12-5.

Force In Runs.

Brooklyn made six hits count for as many runs and the Dodgers turned back the Phillies, 6-3. Walks to Camilli and Winsett forced in the winning run.

Wes Ferrell scored his third straight victory as Washington flattened the A's. Outfielder Mel Alamada was ejected from the game for kicking Umpire John Quinn during an argument over balls and strikes.

The White Sox-Tigers game was rained out in the third with Detroit leading, 2-0.

Another Nip-and-Tuck Battle Looms in News-Journal League

It looks like another nip-and-tuck championship race in The News-Journal Class B golf league this year.

What stacks up as eight evenly-matched clubs were tentatively lined up last night at a meeting at the Central Fruit & Grocery company offices. Judging from the personnels announced today by Homer King, circuit president, all the clubs have excellent chances of copping the crown.

The league, which will play two rounds, opens its schedule Thursday, May 19, at Possum Run.

Mansfield Tires, defending champions, were not represented at the meeting.

Three new teams will make their debut in the loop this season. They are the Elks lodge, Bissman company and Auxter Motors.

Returning from last year are the runner-up Ohio Public Service club, Liberty Shoes, Mansfield Metal Vaults, Central Fruit and The News-Journal.

Tentative lineups of the teams follow:

Elks—Ward, Bissman, Will and J. King.

News-Journal — Oberlander, Swoyer, Byrnes and Balliett.

Ohio Public Service — Frantz, Oaks, Mayer and Herbert.

Metal Vaults — Strome, Rabal, Hedeen and Davis.

Central Fruit—Anthony, Loykovich, H. King and Swigart.

Liberty Shoes- Schlegel, Kelley, Lewis and Eichin.

Bissman Co. — Schadek, Keck, Brandt and Schemine.

Auxter Motors — Van Auker, Herr, Connor and Sawhill.

BOWLING SCORES

Nick Schmidt of the Foremen, Mansfield Tire league, plastered the pins for a 638 to account for the top individual count scored at the Meder alleys last night. Schmidt's string included a 247 game.

Pete Linster of the Mansfield Rugs, Commercial B league, walloped the uprights for a 242 game and 628 total to lead his teammates to the best team count of 2720. Harold Lemunyon of the Q Billiards, same circuit, rolled a 607.

Sophia Meder paced the Women's league. Rolling with the Heilman Grocers, Mrs. Meder put together a row of 214, 165 and 223 for a 602

Durant Seeks Players For Legion Team

Needs Catcher, Outfielder, Infielders for Club.

Needing more established players to fill out the lineup, Mansfield's American Legion semi-pro baseball club is rounding into form slowly for the Central league opener in Logan Sunday, May 8.

The roster is far from set, Manager Dewey Durant announced today, and it will remain indefinite until the vacancies are filled with the type of players now sought.

Wanted: Catcher.

Durant does not plan to don the mask and pad regularly this season, and included in his search for material is a catcher.

The Legion pilot also needs infield and outfield help, and would not turn down any pitchers, either.

Ed Henrich, flashy fielding first baseman of the 1936 Tigers, and a youngster named Keester appear to be the only infielders sure of a job. Keester played with the Lakeland Indians last year.

Dick Donnan, who although he has not reported yet, will be given a crack at second base, and Ed Willard, one of the finest prospects in sandlot circles, is sought for the hot corner..

Willard is a studept at John Carroll university, and he may not be available until June, Durant said.

Harry Ross, whom Durant had figured on using at one of the infield posts, does not plan to play this year.

Need Outfielder.

Heading the list of outfielders figuring in Durant's scheme of things are Tommy Moxley and Orv Kibler, formerly of Ashland college.

Aid Geiger and Lefty Deeds head the pitching department, Durant stated.

Relays Champion Wesleyan Favorite

Cleveland School Looms as Team to Beat in Trackfest in Delaware Saturday.

By RUSSELL FULLER

DELAWARE — (INS) — Ohio high school track athletes today looked forward to the annual Ohio Wesleyan relays which will be held here Saturday amid a blaze of color and an impressive entry list.

George Gauthier, manager of the yearly affair, predicted today that approximately 75 teams and 900 individuals will participate in the various events.

Heavily Favored.

The most potent visitor, of course, will be Cleveland Central, winner of the Mansfield relays, last week. The Clevelanders are heavy favorites to add another crown to their list and sweep on to capture the state meet in Columbus, May 27-28.

Toledo Scott, nosed out by one-half point in the Mansfield relays, will be here to attempt to avenge their sudden and totally unexpected loss. The same boys who wore Scott's colors last Saturday will be raring to go and when they stack up against their Cleveland rivals some of the meet records are expected to go tumbling.

The individual stars will be represented among others, by Newark's Jabbo Giles, crack shot put and discus star, who copped both of his events in Mansfield and shoved the Newark team into sixth position, an entirely unexpected occurrence.

Heading the class B teams will be Upper Arlington, current state class B title holders, and dangerous foes on any track. The Golden Bears have a pack of stars, sturdy athletes who will make the records quiver.

Enter Big Squads.

Columbus North, figuring that strength makes might, has entered 38 persons in the meet.

Ducky Opens Feud With Diz

Says Dizzy Started Row With Sports Writers.

CHICAGO—(UP)—Dizzy Dean of the Chicago Cubs said today it was all right with him if Joe Medwick of the St. Louis Cardinals wanted to feud, but added that it was going to be a one-man affair. "I don't want no part of it," Dean said. "That's baby stuff."

Medwick, in a letter written to Sports Editor Lloyd Lewis and published in the Chicago Daily News, accused Dean of "crawfishing." Dean telephoned Medwick in Pittsburgh yesterday to make sure Medwick had written the letter.

"He told me it was right," Dean said, "but I didn't try to make no peace with him. Confidentially I think they're just trying to build up the St. Louis gate."

Medwick's letter referred to statements attributed to Dean in which the Cub pitcher, recently traded from the Cardinals, accused Medwick of starting the row at Tampa, Fla., in April, 1937, in which the Cardinals scrimmaged with Jack Miley of New York and Irv Kupcinet of Chicago, both sports writers assigned to the team.

"Dizzy started that row," Medwick's letter said. "Miley and Kupcinet will tell you the truth about it, which is that we merely came to Dizzy's rescue. We were always doing that, as he always did a crawfish whenever a row got hot."

Dean said he would refuse to answer the charge, although he said Medwick had asked him to make a "comeback."

Handsome Grunter Signed For Monday

One of the best-looking wrestlers in the United States is unquestionably Whitey Wahlberg, powerful young Swedish light-heavyweight from Duluth, Minn.

Wahlberg's ability is not confined to his looks, however. Wahlberg will make his first appearance in Mansfield Monday night, when he opposes the rapidly-coming Otis Clingman in the headline contest of a three-bout program in the Armory. The two will wrestle for two falls with a time limit of 90 minutes.

JOCKEY KURTSINGER IN GOOD GRACES AGAIN

JAMAICA RACETRACK, N. Y. —(UP)—Jockey Charles Kurtsinger will ride War Admiral in the $100,000 race of the century at Belmont Park on May 30, it was revealed here today.

Kurtsinger, recently suspended for disobedience of orders by Hugh Fontaine, trainer of Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's Brookmeade stable, was reinstated and is now free to ride War Admiral against Seabiscuit in the Memorial day special race.

50 Years Of U. S. Golf

By GARDNER SOULE

IN THE winter of 1887-1888, Robert Lockhart, a Scot who had learned golf in his homeland, brought over the first golf balls and clubs ever seen in America. There is a legend (denied by his son) that Lockhart was arrested for disturbing the peace when he tried out the equipment in New York City.

Announces '360' Doubles Tourney

The annual "360" doubles tournament will open at the Meder Recreation alleys Saturday, and continue until May 8, Mike Meder, owner of the alleys, announced today.

Only bowlers who have appeared in 15 or more sanctioned league games will be permitted to roll in the tournament, Meder explained. If bowlers compete in more than one league, the average will be taken from circuit in which highest average was rolled.

Bowlers will be permitted to roll as often as they wish as long as they change partners each time, Meder said. Matches will be bowled on alleys 5-6, 7-8 and 9-10.

Alumni Game Put Off Until Monday

The football game scheduled between Coach Russ Murphy's candidates of Mansfield high and the Alumni at Empire field today has been postponed until Monday afternoon.

Murphy stated that the game was postponed because several members of the Alumni team were not able to play today.

Penn Relays Draws 3,000

PHILADELPHIA—(UP)—The 1938 eastern outdoor track and field season has its official opening today when upwards of 3,000 athletes swing into action in the two-day, 44th annual Penn Relay carnival at Franklin field.

College, high and prep school and former collegiate stars will participate in 80 relay events and 13 invitation events in track's greatest annual extravaganza.

* * *

DES MOINES, Ia.—(UP)—Fair, warm weather, with a fast track and an imposing list of 1,500 competitors, promised a whirlwind start for the 29th renewal of the Drake university relays today. The 15 events for colleges and universities on the opening program gave ample opportunity for record breaking competition.

LEGAL NOTICE

Grant J. Seaton, place of residence and whereabouts unknown, will take notice that Helen Seaton has filed an action against him in the Court of Common Pleas of Richland County, Ohio, Case No. 24207 alleging in her petition that he has been guilty of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty and praying for divorce and such other relief as is just and proper; and, said action will be for hearing in said court on or any time after the 28th day of May, 1938.

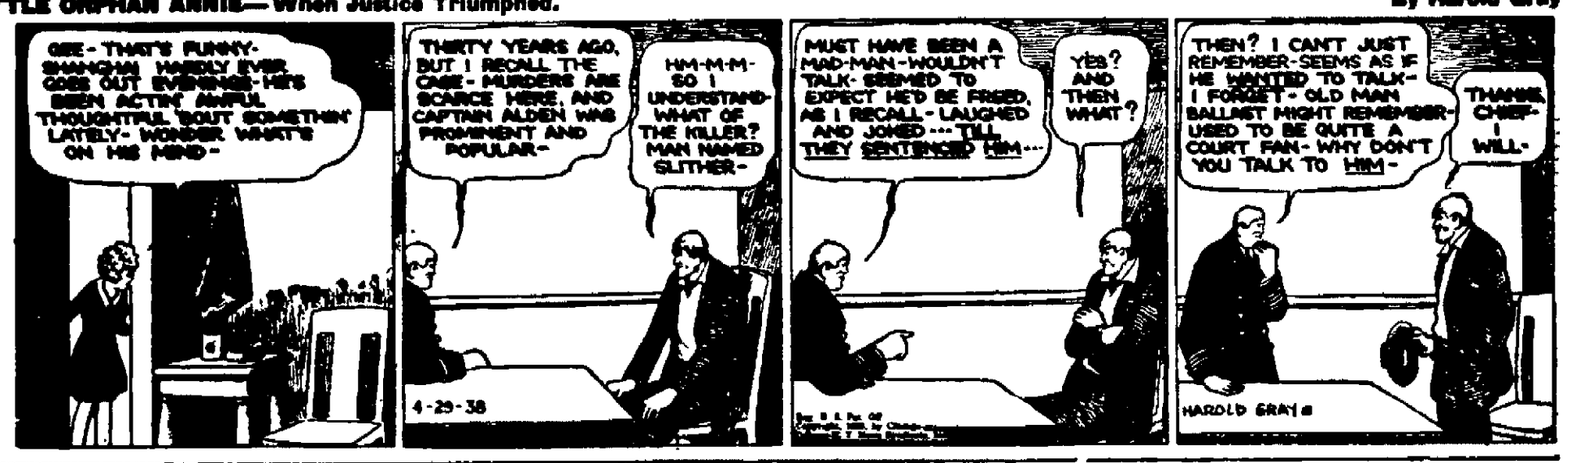
LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE— When Justice Triumphed. By Harold Gray



GEE - THAT'S FUNNY- SHANGHAI HARELY EVER GOES OUT EVENINGS- HE'S BEEN ACTIN' AWFUL THOUGHTFUL 'BOUT SOMETHIN' LATELY- WONDER WHAT'S ON HIS MIND-
THIRTY YEARS AGO, BUT I RECALL THE CASE - MURDERS ARE SCARCE HERE, AND CAPTAIN ALDEN WAS PROMINENT AND POPULAR-
HM-M-M- SO I UNDERSTAND- WHAT OF THE KILLER? MAN NAMED SLITHER-
4-29-38
MUST HAVE BEEN A MAD-MAN - WOULDN'T TALK- SEEMED TO EXPECT HE'D BE FREED, AS I RECALL - LAUGHED AND JOKED --- TILL THEY SENTENCED HIM---
YES? AND THEN WHAT?
THEN? I CAN'T JUST REMEMBER- SEEMS AS IF HE WANTED TO TALK- I FORGET - OLD MAN BALLAST MIGHT REMEMBER- USED TO BE QUITE A COURT FAN- WHY DON'T YOU TALK TO HIM-
THANKS, CHIEF- I WILL-

THE NEBBS— Well, That's Different. By Sol Hess

TAYLOR, I OWE YOU AND YOUR SWEET WIFE MY HUMBLE APOLOGY. I CAN HARDLY HOPE FOR FORGIVENESS FOR THE WAY I ACTED AT YOUR PARTY!
WHY, YOU WERE A SCREAM - YOU PUT THE PARTY OVER - YOU GAVE A LAUGH TO OLD PETTYGRIEF AND HE HASN'T STRETCHED HIS FACE INTO A LAUGH FOR YEARS!
WHEN YOU TOOK A LIPSTICK AND DREW YOUR PICTURE ON MRS. DEGEELS BACK - WELL, I CAN'T TELL YOU WHAT A LAUGH IT GOT
DID I DO THAT, TOO? WELL, FANNY TELLS ME I DISGRACED HER AND I CAN NEVER LIFT MY HEAD AMONGST NICE PEOPLE AGAIN
I THINK SHE WAS A BIT JEALOUS OF YOU - YOU WERE THE WHOLE SHOW AND WHEN YOU SLAPPED THE COUNTESS ON THE BACK AND SAID, 'HOW'S THINGS IN JERSEYVILLE,' I THOUGHT I'D PASS OUT!
VAN, IF YOU BET A CHANCE, TELL FANNY YOU THINK I WAS GOOD - A LITTLE BOOST RIGHT NOW WOULDN'T HURT THINGS ANY

LIST CONTINUES SLIDE DESPITE LIGHT SELLING

Market Analysts Find Scant Comfort in Week-End Trade Reviews.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks continued their slide in today's market, although selling momentum was light. Mild support came into the list after an opening dip.

Buoying the carriers was the announcement from Chicago that directors of the Association of American Railroads had recommended a notice be served on rail labor of a wage cut of some 15 per cent.

Bonds moved sluggishly and a bit unevenly. Major commodities exhibited few signs of recovery. Foreign securities markets displayed a lower drift.

Market analysts found scant comfort in week-end trade reviews. Dun & Bradstreet estimated retail spending averaged 1 to 3 per cent above the preceding week but fell 4 to 12 per cent below the corresponding period last year. Wholesale activities also placed at 8 to 20 per cent under the 1937 week.

Interest was shown in a survey by the investment bankers conferences which stated that, contrary to general belief, there has been no lack of new capital for the expansion of sound companies durin gthe past two years. Prospects of any wide-scale financing in the near future, it was added, wer not bright.

HOPKINS WARNS OF COERCION

Tells Supervisors They'll Be Fired If They Try To Influence Vote.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins prepared a letter of "one syllable words" today to insure 2,545,124 WPA workers against loss of their jobs through political coercion.

He also warned all WPA supervisors that they will be "fired on the spot" if they are found guilty of attempting to influence the vote of workers under them.

Hopkins' action followed charges growing out of the bitter Pennsylvania Democratic primary campaign.

PUBLISHERS HIT NLRB ACTIONS

Oppose 'Unconstitutional' Actions of Board, Flays Lobby Committee.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — The American Newspaper Publishers' association stood opposed today to what it regarded as unconstitutional actions of the National Labor Relations board and the senate lobby committee.

Resolutions adopted at the annual convention set forth the association's views and commended resistance to "lawless" actions.

The resolution on the labor relations board spoke particularly against calling "publishers to account for material they have printed and circulated."

Concerning the lobby committee, the association said it had "sought to intimidate citizens in the exercise of their constitutionally guaranteed right to petition congress, by attempting to compel them to turn over to the committee by the command of a dragnet subpoena, their records, papers and accounts."

The association re-elected James G. Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville, Tenn., Banner, president.

WINS AWARD

Mansfielder Gets Scholarship at DePauw University.

Robert T. Murphy, 28 Myers avenue, a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school, has been awarded an Edward Rector scholarship to DePauw university, dispatches from the university said today.

The award is worth $1,000 and is presented for outstanding scholastic achievement in high school. It is good for four years.

Murphy was one of 100 high school graduates throughout the country to receive the scholarship. The students were selected from more than 400 applications. Those selected met the requirement of an average of 90 per cent for seven semesters' work and stood in the upper ten per cent of their class.

Murphy graduated from Senior high school in the January 1938 class. He is the son of Mrs. Nettie M. Murphy.

SWISS AFRAID LIECHTENSTEIN LEANS TO NAZIS

Germany Lends Helping Hand to Small Buffer State, as Country Watches.

(By United Press)

ZURICH — Concern is felt in Switzerland that the tiny state of Liechtenstein may become Nazified.

Hitherto Liechtenstein has been a "buffer" on the Swiss frontier, preventing the placing of big guns and fortifications near the important strategic position of Sargens in the Rhine valley.

Liechtenstein, itself, is important only geographically. It could do nothing to halt an invader, for its forces consist only of seven regular policemen, sometimes aided by 20 or so volunteers.

But despite the friendly relations between Liechtenstein and Switzerland and their close economic co-operation, Liechtenstein cannot be said to be pro-Swiss on the whole.

Becomes Benefactor.

This is partly due to the fact that Germany has gone out of the way to assist the tiny independent state, while Switzerland has done little or nothing.

Germany, for instance, has offered jobs to Liechtenstein's unemployed—one of its main problems — whereas they have been barred from entering Switzerland.

The chief factor, however, is that the sympathies of the people of Liechtenstein are mainly pro-German. For more than a hundred years, until the World war, Liechtenstein was closely allied to Austria, both politically and economically, and even today the people's outlook is more Austrian than Swiss.

There are two political parties in Liechtenstein, although it is difficult for a foreigner to distinguish much difference between them. At the last election, one party obtained 52 per cent of the votes, and the other 48 per cent. The winning party took power and appointed its followers to all public offices.

Soon after Germany's annexation of Austria, however, the two parties got together, and now the opposition has representatives in the government, and some of the public offices

Liechtenstein is a poor state, mainly dependent for its revenue on selling naturalization to foreigners at $15,000 to $20,000 per head. Since there is no state tax, many European holding companies, particularly British, are nominally registered there.

According to some Swiss observers, in the last resort it will be the country that can offer the most financial gain which will get Liechtenstein's friendship.

Peace Parade Ends in Battle

"Rebels" flaunt swastika.

Student peace paraders at University of Chicago went into battle when three "Nazi sympathizers" taunted them by exhibiting a swastika from the balcony of one of the fraternity houses and added insult to injury by having a phonograph blare "Deutschland Uber Alles" while shouting "Heil Hitler."

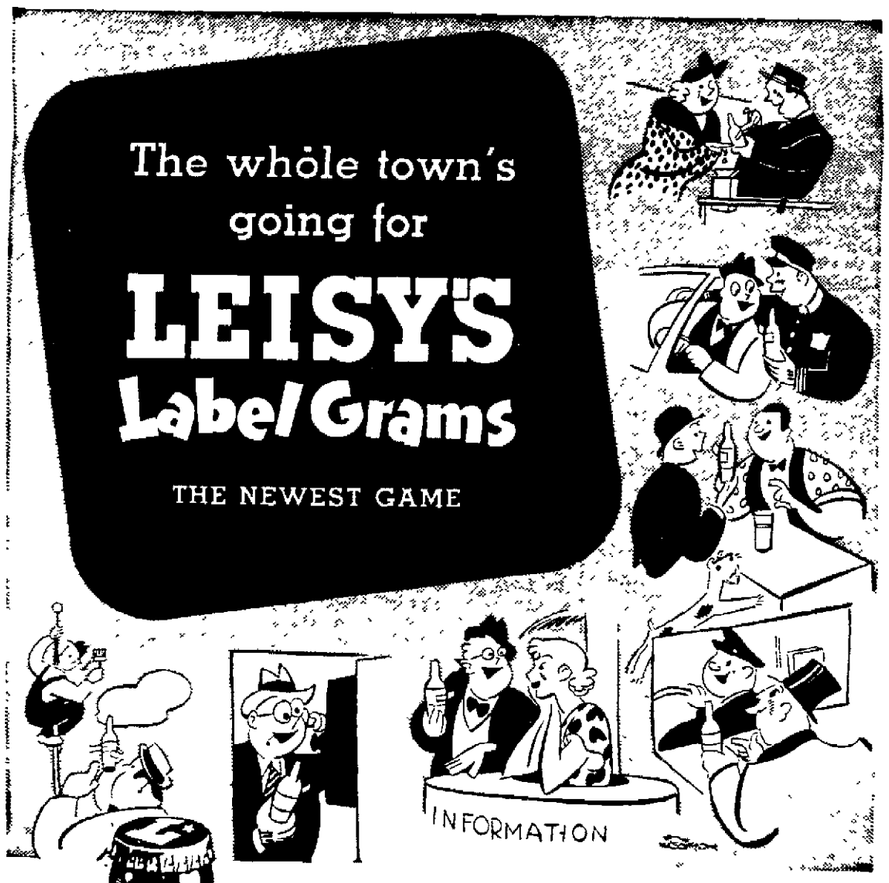
LEISY'S Label Grams
THE NEWEST GAME



When someone pops up with a bottle of beer in his hand, excitedly pulls at the label, then asks you for Cleopatra's full name, or whose picture is on the dollar bill . . . hold everything! That someone is playing LabelGrams, the dizziest, daffiest, funniest game ever. And you'll be playing it too, if you haven't already!

Every bottle of Leisy's carries two perforated tear strips across the label. For the question, lift the top strip. For the answer, lift the bottom strip. And for the grandest beer ever, just lift the cap from that bottle of smooth, mellow Leisy's. Here's a beer made over months instead of overnight . . . slowly brewed from top quality malt and hops and rice . . . gently aged in giant, glass-lined, sanitary vats.

You'll enjoy Leisy's because it's real old-fashioned beer. You'll like LabelGrams because it's loads of fun. So . . . gather with the crowd at your favorite restaurant or tavern where Leisy's is served. Or, have a case delivered for the week-end party. Play LabelGrams, the game that's got the whole town ga-ga!

POLITICAL BOSS, PROTEGE BASIS FOR NEW NOVEL

'Some For the Glory' Among Additions to Library List This Week.

Louis Zara's fascinating novel of American political forces is one of the additions this week at the Public library shelves. It is "Some For the Glory," and the hero is Michael Hawks, who first served Big John Stacy, political boss, when he lived at the orphanage and distributed circulars. Later he rang doorbells in the political precinct. The boy learned rapidly and in turn became mayor of the city and then governor of the state, backed by Big John and his political machine.

Courtney Ryley Cooper's book, "The Pioneers" reveals the political chicanery of selfish interests in 1842 when pioneers were moving westward, dealing directly with the stories of Senator Barton, his daughter, Judy, Kit Carson, the Indian scout, and Jud Moberly, a young outcast.

The 1905 revolution in Russia forms the background of Valentine Kataev's novel, "Peace Is Where the Tempest Blows." Other fiction this week includes "Moving Finger" by Fitzsimmons; "Sundown Jim," Haycox; "Texas Triggers," Cunningham; and "Try and Hold Me," by Patterson.

Timely Historical Volume.

Particularly interesting right now in connection with the celebration of the founding of the Northwest Territory is Ihna Thayer Frary's book "Early American Doorways." This volume represents a large collection of doorways photographed by Mr. Frary on numerous trips over the United States.

Two interesting books on home decorations are "Modern Furnishing and Decoration" by Derek Patmore; and "The Modern Home" by S. John Woods.

The story of a London gem merchant who became a pearl trader after he had lost his stock of gems, is written in the form of an autobiography. It is "Pearl Trader," by Louis Kornitzer, and in it he tells of his many strange experiences in the Far East.

An entire collection of 15 new books in German is being added to the foreign language collection. There is included a mystery story, biographies, travel books, and Christmas books.

Other non-fiction this week is: "The Conway," John Masefield's book about the British Mercantile Marie School ship; "What Books for Children?" by Frank; "How to Write for Business Publications," Orth; "Life Insurance Speaks for Itself," Linton; "The Fool: His Social and Literary History," Welsford; "Secret Writing by Lysing; "Bridges: A Study in Their Art, Science and Evolution," Whitney; "Romance of French Weaving," by Rodier; and "Strange Destiny: Biography of Warren Hastings," by Davies.

TEACHERS HEAR MUSIC PROGRAM

Mansfield Association To Meet At John Simpson Tuesday.

A musical and dramatic program will be given at the monthly meeting of the Mansfield Teachers' association at 4 p. m. Tuesday at John Simpson Junior high school.

The program will be presented by teachers of the music and dramatic department of the schools. Taking part will be the Rhythm band of Newman school, Sigurd Jorgenson, A. Lemoine Derr, Miss Helen Hartman, Lawrence Frank, instructors, and a one-act play, "Sky Fodder," presented under the direction of Earl Heasley, dramatic instructor at the Senior High school.

Robert Y. Davis, president of the association, will preside at the business meeting.

Dewey Signs Agreement Ending Racket

Just one year after he began his drive on racketeers in New York's restaurant unions, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey affixes his signature to a collective bargaining agreement between the cafeteria employes union and the restaurateurs. Left to right foreground are: William B. Herlands, assistant investigator; Dewey, and Father John P. Boland, state labor relations board. Union officials are shown in background.

PREPARES FOR PIONEER DAY

Library to Depict Old and Modern Methods of Book Distribution in Parade.

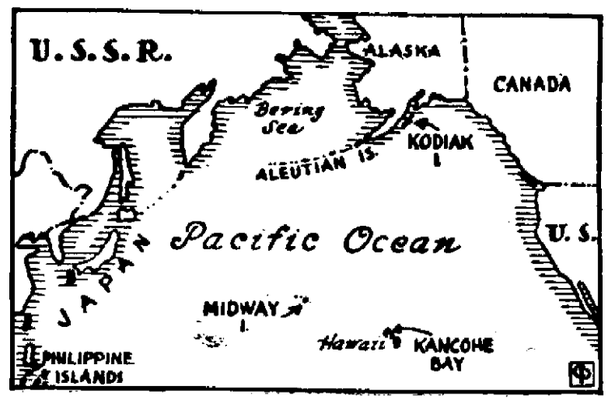
The Mansfield Public library will take an active part in the Northwest Territory sesqui-centennial celebration, starting with a special story hour for children tomorrow and ending with a part in the city's parade Monday afternoon.

Miss Margaret Draper, children's librarian, has arranged to have the story of the opening of the Northwest Territory told at 9:30 a. m. Saturday at the library.

Mrs. Louis J. Ott is chairman of a committee which is planning the library's part in the city-wide parade Monday afternoon. The earliest means of getting books to settlers and the most modern methods of reaching rural communities will be depicted, the former by a horseback rider who carried a few books in his knapsack to loan to settlers in isolated cabins 150 years ago, while the modern way will be shown in the motorized library truck which carries hundreds of books to all parts of the rural communities.

On display in the glass case in the lobby of the library building is a replica of early Ohio settlers made by L. L. Webber, Rowland avenue. The replica includes a covered wagon drawn by four oxen, the master walking at the side and his wife and children in the wagon. Miniatures of Indians, hunters and wild game are in the background.

Proposed Air Bases in Pacific



This map shows three proposed strategic air bases in the Pacific that would give the U. S. navy command of the air over this vast ocean. The proposal, calling for an expenditure of $6,520,000 and marking the first step by the U. S. to disturb the "status quo" established by the Washington treaty for the Pacific defense of signatory nations, was transmitted to congress by Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson. The sites of the ocean air bases would be at Midway island and Kancohe bay, Hawaii, in the mid-Pacific, and at Kodiak in the Aleutian islands off the mainland of Alaska.

TALK ON SAFETY

2 Mansfielders to Address All-Ohio Safety Congress.

Two Mansfield men will present their views on accident prevention in industry at the three-day session of the ninth All-Ohio Safety Congress which opens May 10 at the Deshler-Wallick hotel in Columbus.

P. M. Wooden, personnel director of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company will lead a 10-minute discussion on industrial accident prevention on the opening day at a gathering of representatives of the rubber industry.

On the same day H. W. Arlin, supervisor of industrial relations at Westinghouse, will address a group of pulp and paper representatives on "A Foreman's Part in Safety Work."

The purpose of the annual safety conference is to stimulate accident prevention in industry by reducing accident costs and to bring about economic benefits to both the employe and employer.

Legion Program Looks to Future.

UNDER leadership of Homer L. Challam, director of its National Americanism Commission, the American Legion is working out an educational program that gives promise of becoming increasingly beneficial as it spreads throughout the country.

Speaking in several Ohio cities recently, Challam outlined the Legion's program for the guidance of youth and said Legion officers and members became interested in an educational program when it was disclosed that 22 per cent of the men who fought in the American forces during the World war were illiterate.

Chief features of the Legion's national program are:

Establishing American Education week.

Education of the foreign-born in 2,200 citizenship schools.

Establishment of school awards to teach children consideration of one another.

Effort to establish a co-ordinating council in every school district in the country, to make the fight against juvenile delinquency a local problem in every community.

Sponsoring 3,000 Boy Scout troops throughout the country.

Promoting junior baseball, which last year had 30,000 teams on diamonds throughout the country.

Establishing "boys' states," to teach boys principles and methods of government.

In its dependable support of Americanism and its outspoken opposition to the introduction of insidious communist, fascist or nazi propaganda into the United States, the American Legion provides a trustworthy focal point for the dissemination of patriotism in this country.

In its concern for the future, as evidenced by the educational program outlined herein, the Legion merits general commendation and co-operation.

Women and Their Wealth.

WOMEN are the prospective owners of most of the nation's wealth, according to Dr. William E. Weld, president of Wells college. They are the beneficiaries of 80 per cent of life insurance policies. They pay 80 per cent of the inheritance taxes. They are 50 per cent of the stockholders in the United States and own 44 per cent of the public utilities in the country.

No woman ever set out on a crusade to win for her sex all the private wealth of the land. The trend in that direction has come as a byproduct of other events. And other by-products, in the form of other social changes, will follow it.

For one thing, says Dr. Weld, it shifts "the burden of benevolence from the shoulders of the man to those of the woman." And since woman is less of an individualist and more socially minded than man, she is taking this burden seriously and preparing herself to carry it well. "She is entering into courses in sociology, politics, economics, international relations and psychology with fine interest which promises good things for the future."

This process will affect women themselves, the homes they create and consequently all of society. It should be a process of growth and improvement for all three.

'Policing' the Liquor Business.

BY A FIVE TO ONE majority, two precincts in a Cleveland Heights residential neighborhood have decided to eliminate night clubs and the sale of liquor from those precincts.

In Toledo a group of citizens have united in protest to the state liquor control board against licensing a cafe to occupy a corner near various and churches.

In Mansfield this week liquor permit-holders of Richland county met with the state board and formulated plans to "police" their own numbers, with a view to weeding out undesirables whose disregard of laws and regulations tends to put the retail liquor business "in bad repute."

Whether a business that has so traditionally been linked with law violation can now be trusted to do its own "policing" may be open to question—although a trial of the idea appears justified in advance of any such drastic action as attempting to restore state-wide prohibition.

What appears necessary, however, is a changed attitude on the part of the state liquor control board in the matter of issuing and renewing licenses, with closer scrutiny of applicants and greater care in sanctioning proposed locations of beer or liquor dispensaries.

The liquor set-up in Ohio at present seems more designed to produce profits and taxes than to encourage moderation in drinking. If this continues to motivate the state handling of the liquor business, any emphasis being placed on preventing sales to minors is inconsistent—it being these children who must be depended upon to acquire the appetite that will make them future dependable consumers.

Courtesy Proves Effective.

TRAFFIC police in one of the big cities, after getting drivers pretty well trained to observe the red lights, found that pedestrians were still snarling up the traffic and endangering their own lives. They not only kept on jaywalking between crossings, but at the regular crossings they persisted in disregarding signals.

"Bawling out" a continuous throng of hurrying people is a big undertaking, and doesn't seem to do much good anyway. A clever official had cards printed and stationed policemen at the worst crossings to distribute them. They were not police court tickets, but courteous messages courteously presented.

"You have just crossed the street against the red light," they said. Then they explained the dangers of the practice, and its unfairness to motorists, and urged the offenders to be more careful and considerate.

People seemed to like the idea and appreciated the courtesy, and the situation is reported as much improved.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

THE Progressives, more so than the Republicans, are finding issues ready made. As a result of the gathering of Progressives called to meet at Madison, Wis., by Gov. Philip F. La Follette of Wisconsin, a platform or program will eventuate that may carry somebody to the White House.

The Progressives say the original objectives of the New Deal were good, but that they have been dissipated in a waste of spending and compromise—in an effort to achieve a result painlessly and without fundamental change, which would be painful to some.

The Republicans, or Democratic-Republican conservative coalition, merely urge a "return to normalcy."

Thus, the Progressives, if they present a constructive program, may count even in 1940.

* * *

POWER NEEDED.

Whoever gains office in 1940 will demand a grant of power to get things in hand.

Those opposed to Mr. Roosevelt would not give him the authority.

But it is generally agreed among all three groups — Progressives, New Dealers and the Conservative coalition—that the next president elected will have to be granted power to act quickly with economic crises, and to streamline government departments. The government, which has grown helter-skelter, cannot meet a situation quickly enough as it is.

No democratic function of the government, however, is likely to be tampered. In fact, the streamlining (as visioned) would permit democracy to act, rather than be smothered.

This it becomes of tremendous importance to the American people as to who is elected president the next time. The trend of the government will be according to the views of this man or his group. The Conservative coalition, of course, will oppose with every resource at its command the rise of the Progressives, no matter how much the Progressive attacks on the Roosevelthan methods are covered now.

* * *

FORDISMS.

Henry Ford emanates Fordisms wherever he travels around the country.

The other day he remarked:

"It's not money that's spent that counts. It's the people put back to work.

"Don't think of people out of work as 'the unemployed.' Think of them as a lost market."

Exactly. But how put them back to work? Probably not by spending money. The money soon runs out. Any new administration will move either toward state capitalism or state socialism—or drastic government control of all means of production and distribution.

And before the next administration gets out of office, more vast changes probably will take place in Europe. The present authoritarian nations may give way to socialism. Fascism is liable to crack under the economic strain.

* * *

PARADOX.

Henry Ford lunches with President Roosevelt. But Ford lawyers do not cease trying to upset the national labor relations board law.

A newspaper man who has been covering the suits of the Ford company to determine the legality of the labor board says that not only is Ford spending a fortune in that effort, but the defense is costing the labor relations board "a million dollars." The board's lawyers have to be rushed from city to city to meet these attacks.

And the Republic Steel corporation, of which Tom Girdler is the chairman, but which actually is controlled by Cleveland banking and ore interests, is making an equally strenuous fight. How much the "little steel" strike of last year and the fight on the national labor relations board has cost Republic is a matter of conjecture—but the sum runs into the millions.

J. Warren Madden, chairman of the national labor relations board, however, is optimistic. Speaking at Oberlin college, in Ohio, he said that gradually the labor law would be accepted as just by all employers and the board would have comparatively little to do.

Madden believes that the penalties for violation of the law are comparatively mild."

"Compare the treatment of an employer who has violated as important public policy of the United States with the treatment of a striker found guilty of a law violation on the picket line," Madden says. "The Wagner act provides the mildest sort of administration that can possibly put into effect the public policies of a government."

Railroad Problem Still Unsolved

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Budd L. McKillips of the staff of the standard railroad labor organizations' news organ, Labor, undoubtedly knows at least as much about America's transportation problem as any individual in the country. Maybe he knows more than any other single individual.

According to Budd, "while all of the railroads are now a little anemic from undernourishment due to the business decline, it is generally conceded that they would be able to pull through nobly if they were not carrying around such a load of bond interest obligations." He adds that some of them are suffering from watered stock also.

In other words, they are trying to make money (or, at worst, break even) on the basis of a supposed investment immensely larger than ever was put into them.

* * *

RAILROADS DENY

I made this statement myself (though without Budd's background of specialized information) some time ago.

It was promptly challenged by the Association of American Railroads' press bureau. If the roads ever were watered, the bureau's representative assured me, the juice was squeezed out of them in the far distant past. Well, in fairness, I put out their side of the story—endeavoring to make it clear that it was THEIR version. For, candidly, I didn't believe it.

Budd McKillips, however, speaks with plenty of authority.

He refers to the Association of American Railroads' "press releases" as "tripe, which is fooling no one who doesn't want to be fooled."

* * *

MILLIONS INVOLVED

Nevertheless it is a dickens (a stronger word SHOULD be used) of a situation.

The stock-watering and overbonding dates back a generation or two.

Innocent, unsophisticated suckers loaded up on the transportation lines' securities at the time, their children inherited them and today the sack is held mainly by the original buyers' grandchildren.

And figures run into the billions.

* * *

RAILROAD PROPOSALS

Talk of putting intrinsically insolvent rails through the bankruptcy "wringer" is all very well.

It would make for better conditions 100 years hence—but at present?

Rail managements want to increase passenger and freight rates to meet their overload of obligations. That would advance prices of everything. The Interstate Commerce Commission's view is that this would curtail buying, and consequently reduce shipments, reacting disadvantageously upon the railroads themselves.

Rail managements also want to slash wages—which would reduce the workers' buying power, and harm business generally.

The issue is one of about 1838, tackled under circumstances of 1938.

And the railroad jam is a major factor in connection with the current recession.

* * *

FUNDAMENTALS

We knew the railroads were going on the rocks away back in 1869, when the United States had a historic panic.

But nothing was done about it.

We did not know what to do about it in fact. We do not know now, either.

The thing is too fundamental.

* * *

STOP-GAP LEGISLATION

There is due to be some stop-gap legislation at this session of congress.

It will be like attempting to stop-gap Noah's flood temporarily.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, who, as chairman of senate's interstate commerce committee, has been bossing congress' railroad investigation, is chiefly charged with the task of solving the puzzle.

Well, he has a job on his hands. Do the railroads need more equipment to handle their traffic? President Daniel Willard of the Baltimore and Ohio says otherwise. His tale is that they need "more traffic to handle."

Watching Trends

This and That Around Washington.

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Notes on statesmanship:

Note-of-confusion: More than one person has come from the White House convinced by the affable Roosevelt manner that he has won approval for his ideas when such is not the case. If no harm results, the president lets the confusion continue.

The other day Representative Scott of California came from the White House confident that the president had approved his resolution calling for a public listing of nations which had violated treaties to which the United States was a party.

The president could not let that stand. He didn't want to be put in the position of initiating a move to put the nuisance nations on the spot. He told a press conference emphatically that he neither approved nor disapproved the resolution—that he just declined to pass on it.

* * *

A Snap Judgment.

NOTE-OF-SUSPENSE. President Roosevelt is getting a pair of suspenders from one of the toppest ranking style designers in America—Elizabeth Hawes of New York. It came about this way. Secretary of War Woodring was conferring with the president and in a moment of deep thought permitted an idle thumb to slip under one of his suspenders. A loud and vibrant "snap" was the result as he pulled the elastic strap out and let it smack back against the secretarial chest.

The president was delighted no end and asked the embarrassed secretary where to get such resounding suspenders. Mr. Woodring said he would get the president an even nobler pair. Miss Hawes designed them, a creation in blue with golden stars to hold up the presidential pants.

Prayerful note: Two senators stepped off the senatorial trolley and hurried toward the senate floor.

"We are late," said one, "I guess we will miss the benefit of Reverend Phillips' blessing."

"Oh, he prays all over the universe!" replied the other, "so he'll reach us."

* * *

The Show Goes On.

SWING NOTE: Representative Earl Michener of Michigan took his four-year-old grandson into the house chamber to get a close-up of the members in operation. The house was at its best, with one member in front flailing the air with his arms and shattering the air with oratory, while the other members continued their more or less rythmic drone of conversation. The child took one look at the circling row of seats and the orator at the podium.

"Granddaddy," he asked, "where's the orchestra?"

Reciprocity note: At the same time Horace Russell, general counsel of the Home Owners Loan corporation, was sending out those much-criticized franked letters in behalf of former members of the agency's legal staff, his friends were writing letters to senators recommending him for a newly created place on the District of Columbia circuit court of appeals. Our best information is that he knew the letters to senators were being sent out, but that he did not prompt them. Russell was well liked by his colleagues in federal employ. After his resignation under house fire for alleged misuse of the free government frank, he planned to return to Atlanta to practice.

Listen, World!

Shall We Let Them Turn a Shrine Into a Flop-House?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

DOES America give the foreign born a dirty deal?

Laura Bojnarowski of Detroit says it does—and added much depressing data. We disagreed with Laura—and proceeded to heave a few data ourself. Before doing so, however, we paid sincere tribute to the fine people of alien birth who have respected America's vision . . . helped to carry her burden . . . given so abundantly of their own strength and culture. Such high-minded folk, said we, deserved our lasting gratitude and esteem.

But we felt no such enthusiasm—and we didn't give a hoot who knew it—for those who came here with no thought save self-profit . . . aliens who constantly expressed their contempt for American customs, standards and institutions, yet, at the same time, demanded all the rights enjoyed by the native-born.

Today, millions of such unnaturalized aliens are living on American relief . . . sending their children to free American schools . . . enjoying privileges and profits which their own old-world countries would never grant them. So what?

Are we big hearted Samaritans?

OR JUST A BUNCH OF SUCKERS, RECEIVING THE TRIMMING WE SO RICHLY DESERVE?

All of which we told young Laura. And immediately found we'd started—PLENTY! Letters by the carload—some of them cheering us on, but many alas, calling us where we could go and how to get there quickest . . . W-H-A-M-!

Amongst the friendly is a gentleman whose work brings him in close contact with immigrants—Mr. Rudolph Reimer, district commissioner, U. S. Department of Labor, Immigration and Naturalization Service, Ellis Island. Despite dirty looks and maybe a few bombs, Mr. Reimer still dares to believe that AMERICA SHOULD NOT BE REGARDED AS HUMANITY'S FLOP-HOUSE. And he thinks it might be well to ask our foreign friends a few pertinent questions before we give them all the white meat and best blankets.

"Would it be unfair," says Mr. Reimer, "to ask the alien who wishes to make the United States his permanent residence, JUST WHAT HE CAN CONTRIBUTE TO AMERICA'S WELFARE AND HAPPINESS, OR WHAT HE CAN ADD TO OUR INTERNATIONAL AND SPIRITUAL LIFE, if granted a visa for permanent residence?"

A simple question, seemingly, but just stop and think it over. Let's forget that we are discussing a nation, and talk about houses instead.

Suppose, Bill and Mary, that you had built a big, new house . . . a beautiful house which had cost you, and your people before you, tremendous toil, sacrifice and suffering. But now, at last, you stood on its sill, ready to welcome others to your home—

And, from afar, you saw those others coming . . . a great, clamorous multitude, fleeing from the poverty and persecution of other lands . . . reaching, with frantic desire, toward the haven you had made possible, at so great a price.

And some who came, even though they wore rags, had noble faces, kindly hearts and honest, work-worn hands. And, entering your house, they walked gently—considerately—and in their shining eyes you saw a reflection of that vision which had inspired you and those before you.

And, seeing this, you were glad and welcomed them . . . and shared your heart and hearth with them willingly, gratefully.

But suppose that to every such a one who came with understanding, willing both to bear and share burden or bounty, there were thousands who saw only Gain as they rushed screeching across the sill . . . grabbing at all they could reach . . . consuming the reserves of food and money you had prepared for your children . . . seizing the protection you had prepared for your old and helpless . . . demanding, threatening, jeering, reviling—

WHAT WOULD YOU DO? HOW WOULD YOU FEEL?

For the house HAS BEEN BUILT—

And the multitude IS ADVANCING.

Shall we not even challenge their purpose . . . demand an accounting of "their contribution to America's welfare and happiness, their gift to America's mental and spiritual life?"

OR SHALL WE LET THEM IN UNCHALLENGED . . . TO DEFILE THE HOUSE WE HAVE BUILT . . . TO DESECRATE THE VISION WE HAVE SEEN . . . TO DEMORALIZE THE STANDARD WE HAVE CREATED . . .

TO TURN A SHRINE INTO A FLOP-HOUSE?

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—This reporter, who plays hooky whenever a chance to go hunting or fishing pops up, slipped quietly out of town the other day for a 48-hour survey of some favorite fishing waters, and while the fishing was good and the strikes were frequent, the trip turned out to be a very costly one. He lost a friend.

I will not mention this man's name, because I think a lot of him and he might not like it. Nevertheless you have heard him many times on the radio. He has a summer place on this private lake where I like to angle for favorite pan fish.

* * *

AS YOU know, the season is now closed on bass and pickerel. But one may legally take yellow perch which are a choice fish, and game fighters on light tackle. Well, it was raining hard and the fish were biting, and I was having a fine time. And suddenly a bass took the hook. When you take a bass out of season you carefully release him, if he isn't hooked in the gills. They die, you know, when the gills are punctured, and in small lakes it is not good to throw back fish that will die.

Furthermore, I had been instructed by some friends of mine, two ladies who own the lake, that if such a contretemps took place not to return any injured fish to the water. So I whacked the bass on the head and tossed it among the yellow perch.

And just then my friend drove up. He had come down to look over his cottage and make plans for summer occupancy. It was good to see him, and we chatted enthusiastically for some minutes. His wife was in the car, and while I walked over to speak to her he walked out on the dock to see the fish.

* * *

IN ABOUT five minutes he strode back to the car. He was livid with rage. He gave me the sort of look a cop gives a sneak-thief, and then said: "You're a fine one to take bass before the season opens. I think it is a cheap, lousy trick. I don't suppose you know what sportsmanship is."

Well, how to explain. . . . Any excuse I would have made would have sounded unconvincing. . . . That is one thing that isn't easily glossed over . . . Furthermore, I was getting angry. . . . And embarrassed . . . Because, there I was caught red handed. . . . He climbed into his car and with a final "Cheap, lousy trick," jerked his car into gear and drove away.

So I made no explanation whatever. Later, I related the experience to the owners of the lake, and they said, 'Well, don't let it bother you. Besides, we own this lake. It has never been stocked by the state or the government, and if we give you permission to fish all year round that is our business."

Which was true. But, talking with my friend during those few blistering moments, when I stood there with a dead "illegal" black bass at my feet, really made me feel like a heel. You have to go through something like that to understand how crummy you can feel.

I suppose I'll run into him some summer dawn, with the mist rising from the water on this lake, and I'll probably yell, "Hi, Butch." But he is a musician, and funny. And what he'll answer I don't know.

Trouble With Schools.

Some disquieting things were brought out in the study made by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching in its queries made in Pennsylvania schools and colleges. One of them is that apparently sophomores knew more when they were in their second year of college than they did as seniors and that high school graduates who went to work learned more than those who went to college.

Pennsylvania is held as typical of the rest of the nation, and is not in a sad class by itself. What is true there is true elsewhere.

Perhaps the reflections from these disclosures may be somewhat like the following: Colleges should select their students with more care; they should adapt education to the student's individual aptitudes and needs. Also, whatever be a student's financial condition he or she should find it possible to acquire an education.

This is not to be taken to mean that rich students are not as bright as poor ones. It does mean that because a student is able to pay his way he should have no advantage to go through school over those of the student who cannot raise the money.—Ohio State Journal.

MR. ZERO + + +

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH

(Copyright 1938)

CHAPTER XXV

"You mean?" Mr. Brewster raised anxious eyebrows.

"Oh lord, yes, man! That's where Colesborough was shot!"

"Indeed—I had no idea." The embarrassed tone faded out.

Montagu Lushington went on talking about birds.

It was over at last. Colonel Anstruther and Mr. Paterson withdrew, presumably to the study. Mr. Lushington expressed a wish to see Mr. Brook, who presently appeared. Algy Somers and Cyril Brewster left the room.

* * *

In the rear of the big house, where Sturrock apparently always had everything well under control, the door of the butler's pantry opened and Mr. Zero came in. He shut the door behind him and said in an easy, affable voice,

"Well, Sturrock, have you got them?"

Sturrock had turned round at the first sound, but he showed no surprise. He was expecting Mr. Zero, and expecting to make a very good thing out of him. He had the letters, and that was all the same as having Mr. Zero's neck in a noose. What a bit of luck—his being first to the yew walk. They had all come streaming away without so much as a thought for the letters and left him to find them where they had dropped, tight down beside the hedge, under the window.

Well, he'd got them cheap and he meant to sell them dear, and he didn't mean to run any risks neither. If Mr. Zero wanted to talk, he could do it here in Sturrock's quarters where he wouldn't be tempted to try any more of his fancy stuff. All this took no time. It was in his mind, a settled policy, all thought out and clear. He didn't have to think about it.

So when Mr. Zero said, "Have you got them?" he had his answer ready.

"I've got them all right, if you've got the money, sir."

"I have got it," said Mr. Zero. He put a hand in his pocket and pulled out a wad of notes. "Quick, man show me the letters!"

Sturrock's eyes were on the notes. Money for jam, that's what it was—big money, and not the last of it neither, because as long as he knew what he knew he could cut and come again. As long as he knew. He dived into an inside pocket and brought out a knotted dark silk handkerchief. It had been untied, and tied again, since Sylvia Colesborough had fastened the stolen letters in it, and the knots were loose and slipping. Sturrock pulled out the letters—there were no more than three of them—and pushed the handkerchief back into his pocket.

Mr. Zero threw the bundle of notes down upon the pantry table.

"Count them while I have a look at the letters," he said.

The butler hesitated, leaned forward, reached for the notes, and saw Mr. Zero's right hand go down into his pocket again—a gloved right hand.

But Mr. Zero smiled, took a long step forward, and shot him dead.

There was very little noise. The pistol had been fitted with a silencer. This Mr. Zero removed.

Sturrock had fallen across the table, but the heavy body would probably slide to the floor. With his gloved hand Mr. Zero clasped the limp right hand about the pistol butt. He put the letters and the notes into his pocket. Then left the room.

William gave the alarm ten minutes later, rushing white-faced into the study.

"Mr. Sturrock—oh, sir, he's shot himself! Oh, sir!" And then an incoherent story of how he had tried the door of the butler's pantry, the one on the kitchen side, and found it locked—"And when I couldn't get an answer I went round by the other door—and he's shot himself!"

Inspector Boyce went quickly out of the room. The study faced the terrace, with the dining room behind it, and the butler's pantry behind that. As he ran through the hall, he saw Algy Somers on his way downstairs. He ran on.

* * *

The door through which Williams had entered the pantry opened from the dining room. It stood wide open now, and Inspector Boyce could see the heavy figure of the butler fallen in a heap beside the table. That he was dead was past all question. That it was suicide seemed likely enough. And if it was suicide, then perhaps they need not look any farther for the murder of Sir Francis Colesborough.

The inspector tried the second door, and found it locked. Then he went over to the telephone and rang up the police station.

Dr. Hammond, official medical examiner, came in presently.

"Not suicide, do you think, doctor?" asked Colonel Anstruther.

"Well, I shouldn't say so." Dr. Hammond's voice was brisk. "I'm not going to say it's impossible, but he was shot through the left temple, and he wasn't a left-handed man. Work it out for yourselves. I don't say it's impossible that a man who's going to commit suicide should take the pistol in his left hand and shoot himself through his left temple, but I don't believe it's ever happened. I mean, why should he. The thing's absurd. Besides—"

"There's this, sir," said Inspector Boyce. He leaned across the writing-table at which Colonel Anstruther was sitting and laid upon the blotting-pad the dark silk handkerchief.

"Bless my soul—what's that?"

"Handkerchief the missing letters were tied up in, sir. Lady Colesborough has identified it. You can see where the edge of the letters has marked it, and where the corners have been knotted."

"Well?" said Colonel Anstruther, staring.

"Where are the letters, sir? That's the point."

"He burnt 'em. How's that, Brook?"

Mr. Brook shook his head.

"There was only a very small fire, sir," said the inspector—"pretty well dead. Sturrock had been out for the afternoon, you know. If he'd tried to burn the letters, there'd have been some ash about. There wasn't any. And if he was Mr. Zero and he'd got back letters incriminating him by murdering Sir Francis, he'd have destroyed them right away, and destroyed the handkerchief, too."

"How do you know he didn't destroy 'em at once?"

"Marks on the handkerchief," said Inspector Boyce. "Very soft silk, sir. See—there's the shape of the envelopes quite plain, but the crease wouldn't last an hour or so tumbling in his pocket like he had it."

"What do you say to that, Brook?"

The four men were alone in the study. Mr. Paterson, whose firm would as soon have touched divorce as murder, had gone back to town outraged in every susceptibility. Mr. Montagu Lushington had not gone yet. He was, at the moment, in the drawing room with his two secretaries.

"What do you say to that, Brook?"

Mr. Brook nodded slightly.

"The inspector is quite right, Colonel Anstruther. That handkerchief would only keep the shape of the letters for a very short time. If they hadn't been tied up in it for a good many hours, it wouldn't have kept it at all. I don't think it was suicide. Sturrock was the first on the scene of Sir Francis Colesborough's murder after Mr. Somers and Miss Hardwicke ran up to the house. Lady Colesborough has said all along that she didn't know what happened to the letters. Either she dropped them on her side of the hedge, or Mr. Zero dropped them on his side. The dark silk covering would make the packet very inconspicuous. By some accident Sturrock found them. I think it is quite impossible that he should have been Mr. Zero, but I think the letters told him who Zero was. I think he tried to make use of this knowledge, and I think it brought him to his death. I think Mr. Zero is a very dangerous man to blackmail."

Colonel Anstruther growled, "Sounds like a lot of guesswork to me. What about the pistol—what about fingerprints? They'll show who handled it."

"Only Sturrock's fingerprints on it, sir," said Inspector Boyce. "But, of course, anyone who was out to make it look like suicide wouldn't go leaving fingerprints of his own. Mr. Brook is quite right, sir—Mr. Zero is a dangerous man. And I don't think we've got to look very far for him either. It's getting enough evidence for a jury that's the trouble."

* * *

Colonel Anstruther looked up at him frowning.

"There's no doubt about the pistol being the missing one of Sir Francis Colesborough's pair?"

"Absolutely no doubt at all, sir. And who had the best opportunity of taking it? Why, he'd half an hour to do what he liked before we got here—hadn't he?"

Dr. Hammond had been listening with brisk attention, turning him head from one speaker to another with rather the air of a terrier who is watching several ratholes at once. He now burst into speech.

"You mean Mr. Somers?"

Colonel Anstruther pushed back his chair with a jerk.

"Oh, have him in—have him in! It's a crazy case, if you ask me."

The Inspector made for the door to call Algy, but stopped with his hand on it. Mr. Brook was speaking.

"Perhaps we had better see Mr. Brewster first. Mr. Lushington will be wanting to get back to town. If you have no objection, Colonel Anstruther—"

Colonel Anstruther had no objection, and presently Mr. Brewster came in.

Before the door was shut Dr. Hammond was up and taking his leave.

"I'd like to stay, but I've got to go. Twins at Railing, and a broken leg at Oldmeadow. What a life!"

When he was gone Colonel Anstruther turned to Mr. Brewster, "We won't keep you long, but we think you may be able to help us."

"Anything I can do." Mr. Brewster registered an earnest desire to be helpful.

"Naturally. I believe you and Mr. Somers left the drawing room together after tea."

"Oh, yes, Colonel Anstruther, we did."

"Did you happen to notice the time?"

"Oh, yes—I glanced at my watch. It was 20 minutes past 5."

"Can you tell us what happened after you left the room?" Colonel Anstruther's tone was testy.

"Yes, I can, Colonel Anstruther. Mr. Somers and I came out of the drawing room together and when we got about half way across the hall the butler came toward us."

"What? You saw Sturrock after you left the drawing room?"

"We saw the unfortunate man who is the subject of the present enquiry."

"Bless my soul!" said Colonel Anstruther. "Make a note of that, Boyce. Well, that narrows down the time considerably. You saw Sturrock alive at twenty past five, and William found him dead at five-and twenty to six. Well, go on, sir. What was he doing?"

"He approached us," said Mr. Brewster, speaking in his precise way, "and he informed Mr. Somers that he was wanted on the telephone."

"What?"

"I will endeaver to give you his exact words. To the best of my recollection he said, speaking to Mr. Somers, 'There's a London call for you, sir. Perhaps you wouldn't mind taking it in my pantry as the gentlemen are using the study.'"

"Go on," said Mr. Brook. "What happened after that?"

"Mr. Somers disappeared in the direction from which the butler had come. I then enquired where it would be convenient for me to wait until Mr. Lushington had finished his conversation with Mr. Brook, and the butler indicated a room he called the Parlor."

"Did Sturrock accompany you?"

"No—he merely indicated the room."

"You went there?"

"I did, and remained there until about a quarter to six, when I thought I had really better make sure that Mr. Lushington was still engaged. I found the house in a turmoil, and was informed that the butler had shot himself."

"That," said Mr. Brook, "is by no means certain."

"Indeed?" Mr. Brewster expressed a mild surprise.

"The parlor is some way off," said Colonel Anstruther. "Did you see anyone at all during the time you were there?"

"No."

"Or hear anything? You didn't hear the shot?"

"Oh, no, sir."

"Well, I think that's all—eh, Mr. Brook? I don't think we need keep you any longer, Mr. Brewster, and I don't think we need detain Mr. Lushington if he wants to be off. Boyce, will you ask Mr. Somers to come here."

"He knew his stuff about furnaces"

$2 A WEEK Will Buy A Williamson Tripl-ife Furnace

"My old Williamson Furnace has given years of satisfactory service. The Williamson Heating Engineer recommended certain changes in the cold air duct which eliminated drafts and gave more uniform heat throughout the house. In other words, 'He knew his stuff'. The built-in heat regulator and the automatic waterpan were extra surprises I had not expected until he told me about them."—Mr. Ray O. Miller, Ohio.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY
Dearborn, Michigan

Gentlemen: When I received my new 1938 De Luxe Fordor Sedan in January, I decided to make a few mileage tests of my own.

I made a test on a trip with five passengers in the car, driving between 60 and 65 miles per hour, and averaged 18.4 miles per gallon of gas.

At another date my wife and I took a trip to Lincoln, Nebraska, driving between 60 and 65 miles per hour most of the time, and our average was 18.7 miles per gallon. Naturally, I am well pleased with these figures. I have driven cars that were heavier and much more expensive, but I find the riding, handling and appearance of this Ford car are equal to any.

Sincerely,
A. F. MILLER

FORD MOTOR COMPANY
Dearborn, Michigan

Gentlemen: I want you to know what a delight and pleasure it is for me to be the owner of a new 1938 De Luxe Ford. Its beautiful streamlined appearance evokes admiration from all sides, and many have mistaken it for a much higher priced car.

The luxuriously upholstered interior, coupled with its easy-riding qualities, make it a delight for my family to ride in. And last but not least, the powerful V-8 motor which responds so quickly. My satisfaction with all these points, plus remarkably economical gas and oil consumption, leads me to believe that I could not find a more satisfactory car at any price.

Very truly yours,
ALFRED D. HOFFMAN

SPEAKING OF Enthusiasm!

FORD MOTOR COMPANY
Dearborn, Michigan

Gentlemen: I am the owner of a 1938 De Luxe Ford V-8 Tudor Sedan, which is the second Ford car I have owned. Previous to that time I was the owner of six automobiles of another make and, after "shifting" to Ford, I am better satisfied than I have ever been, and for a low-priced car I think it can't be beat. The Ford 8-cylinder engine for performance and economy sure does the job.

Yours very truly,
JOHN I. KENT

FORD MOTOR COMPANY
Dearborn, Michigan

Gentlemen: I'm sure you will be interested in my experience on my first trip in the new "85" De Luxe Coupe delivered to me Sunday.

On this trip we drove into a filling station and asked the attendant to "fill her up." The tank slopped over on seven gallons and the speedometer read 154 miles. The station attendant's eyes stood out at this mileage, and needless to say I am more than pleased, as 22 miles per gallon on a brand-new 8-cylinder car must be a record.

Very truly yours,
F. C. GLAZIER

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Small boys and girls will certainly enjoy Dr. Seuss's picture book "And to Think That I Saw It on Mulberry Street" Marco was a little boy with a large imagination. He could never bear to tell you what he really saw, it wasn't exciting enough, so an ordinary horse and cart grew to the most alarming proportions, and became a "story that no one could beat!" The colored illustrations get larger and larger until they completely cover the last page The whole family will chuckle over this book

Another attractive picture book is "The Traveling Coat" by Frances Eliot. The little coat belonged originally to Istvan in Hungary. He grew up and the coat began its travels First to Germany, then to Holland, England, India, China, and finally to the U. S, where it had a very violent end. A billy goat ate it up and all that was left was a corner with Istvan's name.

$200,000 HIGH SCHOOL URGED

County Board Ready to Submit Plans for Building to Serve 4 Townships.

housing the 55 pupils in another district.

The Adario school's first grade charter was revoked by the state department three weeks ago, and the order was to have been effective at the close of the current school year.

Robinson said the proposed new high school building would be located near the center of an area including Weller, Franklin, Butler and Bloominggrove townships. The county board, he said, is ready to ask a PWA grant for 45 per cent of the cost of the building. A local bond issue would provide the rest.

If the plan is approved, it would permit the use of the present Adario and Union (Franklin and Weller) high schools for grade schools, Robinson explained.

Opposition to the county board's redistricting plan which will be heard tomorrow has been centered in the Butler township and Union school districts. A petition to retain the Adario high school was signed by 273 voters, about 90 per cent of the Butler township total. A number of the residents of the northern part of the township complained that the distance to the present Union high school is too great to permit transportation of pupils in safety.

Major opposition to the consolidation in the Weller district has been based on the crowding that would result from the addition of the 55 Adario pupils to the present high school enrollment there.

While school officials wrestled with the re-districting plan in northern Richland county, the Bellville board of education today asked for bids on a four-room frame addition to the Bellville school to house 48 more pupils.

Nine rural school buildings in the Bellville area, which were closed under the re-districting plan enacted last year, will be sold May 28 at public auction to provide a part of the funds for the new building. The nine one-room schools are located in Washington, Perry and Jefferson townships. Pupils from the closed schools will be taken in buses to Bellville.

BAND LEADER MAPS APPEAL

Kosinski Gets Life Term In 14-Year-Old Murder Case.

CLEVELAND — (UP) — John Kosinski, 32, nationally known vaudeville band leader, today announced he planned to appeal his conviction of a 14-year-old murder charge "to the highest court."

Kosinski was found guilty of the murder of Anthony Bulbo, a bank guard, after 11 hours deliberation by a jury here last night. He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Kosinski was apprehended after a 13-year search and tried for the first time last November. He was ordered re-tried when the jury was deadlocked.

WORKS 2 YEARS TO BUILD MODEL

Veteran Machinist Constructs 24-inch Locomotive That Can Really Run.

Sulzer said he had to go to Lima locomotive shops to obtain one," he explains.

a blueprint and since then, he divides his time between working on the model and visiting the railroad yards at Crestline, going over the huge rail monsters and consulting experienced trainmen.

And, after 21 months, Sulzer has perfected a scale model one 25th the size of the real locomotive he has patterned it after. It's not quite completed yet—and it will probably take at least another year, he says.

There's going to be a tender with a gasoline tank so the miniature boiler can be automatically stoked. That part of the mechanism will operate like a blow torch, the builder explains.

Sulzer, who is of Swiss decent and has a fine sense of humor, explains that the work "wasn't hard—it just takes a little patience."

The miniature is constructed of cold rolled steel and brass. The boiler is made up of 18 tiny flues and there are counter-balanced drive wheels and all the shafts and pins are built with the fine precision that Sulzer inherited from his Swiss watchmaker ancestors.

Even the small pistons in the steam cylinder have been tooled and are equipped with rings just like an automobile. There's a steam whistle and a miniature steam gauge that records the pressure in the boiler, the Johnston bar, well known to all trainmen—used like the gear shift lever in an auto, also has been fashioned after the real thing.

The small bell above the cow catcher has a small clapper and really rings.

This unusual model is Sulzer's most prized possession and as a result he's not going to leave it in the display window over night.

"That's going home with me every night," he says.

When it is finished, the engine will be painted black with gold numerals on the side.

Baby in Truck, Mother Gone

Mystery revolving about a seven-week-old baby girl "discovered" in the back of a truck at Winston-Salem, N. C., has been cleared up by Watson Tuttle, driver of the truck. He told authorities that the child had been given him by the baby's mother, believed to be Rita Senfner of New York. Tuttle explained "I want to tell the straight of it. The mother of that baby girl was hitch-hiking along the highway near Norfolk, Va., last Friday. I picked 'em up and brought them to Greensboro to a tourist camp." Search for Mrs. Senfner was begun. Her mother said she had set out two weeks previously from New York to Fort Myer, Va., to wed the baby's father.

Green Boxes, Red Ones Allee Samee, So Bill's In Jail

NEW YORK — (INS) — Note to Mrs. William Ming in Philadelphia: Don't look for that special delivery letter from your husband. He is in jail, landing there after trying to mail the letter.

Green boxes—red boxes—allee samee to William. He tried to open a red one by pulling the handle down so that he could deposit the letter. Came three engine companies, two trucks and two radio cars.

"No fire," beamed William, "letter."

He was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge. He still has the letter.

GETS SANITY TEST

YOUNGSTOWN —(UP)— Common Pleas Judge Erskine Maiden, jr., announced today he would appoint two physicians to examine Norman Smith, 19-year-old farm hand who is accused of the murder of three persons. Smith entered a formal plea of not guilty and an auxiliary plea of not guilty by reason of insanity when arraigned yesterday.

HUNTER SEEKS DAVEY'S AID

Protests to Governor Extension Granted Railroads to Protect Crossings.

for much consideration from this source."

Mayor Hunter explained that traffic surveys had been made at the unguarded crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio following a fatal accident there early in January and that surveys had been only recently completed at five other crossings that were only partially protected.

He told the governor that since the utilities commission had granted the extension of time to the railroads that another fatal accident had occurred at the double track crossing of the Erie railroad and that another person had been seriously injured in the same accident.

Agitation for protection at all city grade crossings was started early in January following the fatal accident at the Bowman street crossing of the B. & O., which is the only ungarded crossing in the city.

The crossings where full-time protection has been recommended, that are now only partially guarded, are the Erie on North Diamond street, the Baltimore and Ohio and the Erie on North Mulberry street, and the Erie double crossing on North Main street.

Three Pairs of Brothers Injured As Cars Collide

Three pairs of brothers suffered minor injuries in a head-on auto collision early Thursday evening on South Mulberry street, according to a police report today.

Brothers riding in one car were Harry and Paul Bogner, R. D. 5, Earl and Richard Hershey, 304 Sturges avenue and Paul and Robert Dillon, 170 Glessner avenue, were in the other. Drivers of the cars were Paul Bogner and Richard Hershey.

Four of the boys were treated at General hospital for their injuries. Harry Bogner, 19, suffered abrasions about the head and lacerations of the chin, arms and legs, and his brother, Paul, 21, was treated for abrasions of both legs and lacerations of the left knee. Earl Hershey, 13, suffered lacerations of the right ear and abrasions of the nose and chin, and Paul Dillon, 15, was cut about the nose. Richard Hershey and Robert Dillon received minor bruises.

Paul Bogner told police that the accident happened when he attempted to go around a pile of gravel on the street, striking the oncoming Hershey car head-on.

RUMORS RIFE ON REORGANIZATION

Capital Hears Administration Might Try to Revive Debate on Controversial Bill.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Reports circulated in the senate today that administration leaders might try to revive the government reorganization program, which the house recently pigeonholed after a hard-fought contest.

Some interested house members were understood to have asked Senator Byrnes (D-SC) to seek senate passage of a measure—approved by the house last summer—embodying the key provision of the side-tracked legislation. It would permit the president to reshuffle most federal agencies by executive order.

Byrnes, who piloted a broad reorganization bill succesfully through the senate, commented:

"I have no thought of making a new attempt to get reorganization legislation."

Administration leaders were trying to get the house rules committee to give right-of-way to a new wage-hour bill, another major item on the Roosevelt program.

Many Roosevelt supporters glumly asserted the chances of a favorable vote were slim. They conceded there was little chance of enactment of the bill this year.

ACTS TO QUELL FARM 'REVOLT'

AAA Sends Out Supervisors To Give Farmers "Facts."

WASHINGTON—(UP)—The department of agriculture ordered its officials into the field today to fight a self-styled corn belt rebellion against the new farm program.

Asserting that the situation is becoming serious in the middle-west, the agricultural adjustment administration instructed state, county and township committees to begin an immediate counter-campaign.

Claude R. Rickard, north central division AAA director, accused the corn belt Liberty league of inspiring dissatisfaction and with "misrepresenting the facts." He predicted that the "revolt" would die just as soon as farmers are fully informed regarding the program.

TAX RECEIPTS ONLY $18,000 UNDER '37 MARK

Treasurer Says $621,000 Paid in to Date; Collection 'Unusually Good.'

Real estate and special assessment tax receipts in Richland county for the first half of the year were $621,370, a decline of $18,063 from the collections for the same period in 1937, County Treasurer John E. Kolb said today.

This year's collections so far, which total approximately 93 per cent of the half year charge, leave $891,805 still due the county in 1938 from real estate holders, the treasurer's figures showed.

The balance due includes all current and delinquent levies under the real estate and special assesment classifications. Of the amount, $749,218 is in real estate tax and $142,587 in special levies.

Total Bill $1,500,000.

Despite the decline in collections, Kolb said the year's collections so far were unusually good considering the drop in employment.

The county's tax bill on real estate this year is $1,513,176, of which $180,834 is in special assessments.

Along with the satisfactory payment of current taxes, Kolb said he expected a marked reduction in delinquent taxes this year.

The tax books show $365,341 carried over from last year in past-due taxes. The amount is divided into $225,860 in real estate tax and $139,481 in special assessments.

MOUNTAIN SHEEP DISAPPEAR FAST

Rangers Fear Park Stock Might Become Extinct.

LONGMONT, Colo.—(AP)—When rangers of Rocky Mountain national park discovered a large Rocky Mountain big horn ram ill on a high mountain cliff they hurriedly summoned an ambulance, then carried the ram down the mountain.

When the ambulance arrived the ram was rushed to the park stock farm but no veterinarians were available so physicians were summoned. The ram died soon after they arrived.

Rangers said they made desperate efforts to save the ram because they hoped to learn something about the cause of disease that is killing many big horn sheep.

The average depth of the ocean below sea level is 12,450 feet.

Speaks Tonight

SPENCER D. IRWIN

ANALYZES OLD WORLD AFFAIRS

Irwin Lectures on 'European Danger Spots' Tonight at Delano Hall.

Spencer D. Irwin, member of the staff of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, will speak on "European Danger Spots" at 8 p. m. today at the Delano Lodge hall, Bowman street and Vale avenue.

A former Mansfileder, Irwin is associate editor and foreign affairs columnist for the Plain Dealer. He is recognized as an authority on European affairs and has been honored by the governments of Roumania and Czechslovakia for his newspaper work. He is author of a weekly column, "Behind the Foreign News."

For two years Irwin was a member of the staff of the old Mansfield News.

His lecture tonight will be open to the public and there will be no admission charge.

CRUSADE ALTAR FOUND

JERUSALEM —(AP)— An altar dating from crusading times—with a marble "mensa" or centerpiece—has been found in the church of th. Holy Sepulchre here.

GRADING TOPS ROAD PROGRAM

'Berming' to Provide Proper Drainage, Major Operation on County Schedule.

Richland county's summer road program will soon be under way, with grading of road berms scheduled as the major operation this year, according to County Engineer Howard C. Sword.

The operation, known in highway parlance as "berming," provides for proper drainage during heavy summer rains and maintains the necessary crown in the road, Sword said.

"It's a slow process, and we can do only about 50 miles a year, which means that it takes eight years to cover all the county's 400 miles of roads," the engineer explained.

The operation, which consists of removing the ridges from along the edges of the road, should be done every four years to provide the proper drainage, Sword said, but because of limited funds, the road department must content itself with "berming" all the roads once every eight years.

The surplus material, mostly clay, which is scraped off the edges of the highways, is given to the owners of property along the routes from which it was taken.

Farmer Hurt as He Grabs Fuse Of Flash Bomb

XENIA—(UP)—Joseph Glaser, 63, farmer, of near Osborn, was severely burned when an unexploded aerial flash bomb he found in his fields exploded in his face.

The bomb was one of six 25-pound bombs dropped by planes from Patterson field, Dayton, O., on a photographic flight. Col. Frank M. Kennedy sent out soldiers from the field to notify farmers that one of the bombs failed to explode and that if they found it to be careful in handling it.

Glasser was driving a planter drawn by a team of horses in his potato field when he came upon the unexploded bomb. According to his helper, George Geis, Glaser picked up the partly imbedded bomb and accidentally pulled the fuse, setting off the charge.

The frightened horses ran off, dragging and trampling Glaser who still had the reins in his hands. Glaser also suffered body bruises and spine injuries.

GOLD SOUGHT; FOS'IL FOUND

SAN JOSE, Cal.—(UP)—Richard Burns, digging for gold near here, dug up instead a bone. University experts have declared it to be a part of the spinal column of a pre-historic reptile.

Following Vision With Service

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for May 1 is Mark 9:14-29, the Golden Text being Mark 9:23, "All things are possible to him that believeth.")

The dazzling splendor of the vision has faded; the mysterious voice from heaven is silenced; Moses and Elijah have disappeared, "and Jesus came and touched them and said Arise, and be not afraid. And lifting up their eyes, they saw no one save Jesus only." But the Jesus they saw was the same Jesus of Nazareth they had known before the vision, though heaven's testimony in the vision was, "This is my beloved Son." Though Jesus had companied with Moses and Elijah in the vision he is still willing to company with the Galilean fishermen, and they set out for the valley below to minister to human need.

"My Son—Mine Only Child."

What a contrast they found in the valley below! On the mount they had heard the heavenly Father say "This is my beloved Son." Now they hear an earthly father crying out in anguish: "I beseech thee to look upon my son: for he is mine only child." But this only begotten son of the earthly father is held in the power of the enemy of God and man. The nine apostles in the absence of Jesus were helpless to bring relief to the afflicted child. So the father appealed to Jesus "Teacher, I brought unto thee my son, who hath a dumb spirit; and wheresoever it taketh him, it dasheth him down . . . and I spake to thy disciples that they could cast it out; and they were not able." This explains the eagerness of Jesus to come from the place of glory to the place of gloom. His whole earthly life was a coming down from divine majesty to human misery.

"Help Thou Mine Unbelief."

In the presence of his impotent church, whose impotence to relieve this human misery was due chiefly to the disciples' lack of faith to make use of the powers Jesus had given them, Jesus rebuked that lack of faith, saying, "O faithless generation, how long shall I be with you? How long shall I bear with you? Bring him unto me." And when the father brought the child, he said to Jesus, "If Thou canst do anything, have compassion on us, and help us." To which Jesus replied, "If thou canst! All things are possible to him that believeth." And "straightway the father of the child cried out, and said, I believe; help thou mine unbelief." What a confession this is of mingled faith and doubt! But how truly it represents the experience of all of us at one time or other of our lives! But this father preferred to believe rather than to doubt. He chose faith to walk by his side, and could not help it that doubt dogged his steps. He was proud of his faith and ashamed of his doubt. And our Lord graciously overlooked the doubt he fought against and rewarded the faith that triumphed over the doubt, as "he rebuked the unclean spirit, saying unto him, Thou dumb and deaf spirit, I command thee, come out of him and enter no more into him." And Jesus took the child by the hand and lifted him up and he arose and Jesus gave him back to his father fully restored to health. Then to his disciples' inquiry as to the reason for their helplessness to bring relief, he replied, "This kind can come out by nothing save by prayer" As he prayed on the mount he was transfigured.

A Farmer's Diary

By CALVIN A. BYERS

April 28.

JUST now the apple tree out by the garden is all white with blossoms. One week ago some deep pink buds stood out. From a little distance, they looked as tempting, as a cherry tree with flaming fruit.

A few days more of bright sunshine and the tree showed a brighter pink trimmed in lacy white. The east wind bore the delicate fragrance through our open doors and windows. The soft, balmy breeze, laden with such sweet odors, made me feel a lilt of spirit that mere words cannot express.

Last evening this lovely tree stood transfigured in a pure white robe, until the slanting rays of the setting sun shone full against the top, and seemed to scatter dust of gold, taupe and amber over all the whited balls. I stood mute in admiration, hoping the picture would not pass too soon.

Even at this late hour, bees and smaller insects hummed about each moving branch, busy with the task of gathering the latest nectar formed. I thought perhaps a hummingbird would seek this paradise of bloom, but I believe the season is too early yet.

Within the close-branched top, concealed entirely, I heard the soft, shy warble of the Baltimore oriole. I watched carefully to see his coat of bright orange and black, but he preferred to remain unseen, though not unheard.

Hardly had I moved away ten steps, when on the highest branch, I saw a cardinal light. His scarlet coat seemed to pierce the snowwhite bloom, as he sat atilt upon the swaying branch. For at least three minutes he stayed there, the center of a completed picture

Apple blossom time is here.

PUSHES THIRD PARTY PLANS

Gov. LaFollette of Wisconsin Puts Progressives in Political Field.

"every form of coddling, or spoonfeeding the American people," declaring that "whatever it may cost—so help us God—we shall use the power of these United States to restore to every American the opportunity to help himself." After that, said La Follette, "he can sink or swim."

Thus was born the second political party to be conceived and nurtured in Wisconsin. In 1854 the Republican party came into being at Ripon, Wis.

In Father's Footsteps.

Straight in the footsteps of his famous father, the late Senator "Bob" LaFollette, who polled more than 5,000,000 votes for president as the leader of the Progressive party of 1924, the 40-year-old governor chief executive bucked the entrenched Democratic and Republican parties with a sharp attack.

"For ten years," he said, "they have been fumbling the ball. The political lines between the Republicans and the Democrats were marked out in 1860. They have nothing to do with 1938.

"The real division in the United States today is not between the Republicans and the Democrats. It is not between the workers and the farmers; it is not between capital and labor. It is between the earners on the one hand and the collectors on the other."

"No 'Isms' Will Help."

Although he asserted the "old fashioned capitalism is gone forever," Gov. LaFollette repudiated any form of government except democracy. Communism, Fascism or socialism will never solve America's problems, he said.

The solution, according to the precepts he laid down down for the Progressive party, lies in the right of every American, farmer or city laborer, to earn a living by "the sweat of his brow."

His graying thatch of hair disheveled and his face moist with perspiration, he outlined his plan for two hours last night to 5,000 in the University of Wisconsin stock pavilion and an overflow crowd of 2,000 outside who listened by loudspeaker.

Brother Backs Him.

A. A. Berle, assistant secretary of state and representative of Mayor La Guardia of New York, was the only national personage who appeared, but the governor's brother, U. S. Senator Robert M. LaFollette, jr., sent a message of support from Washington.

LaFollette, declaring American freedom rooted in American abundance, warned his audience "the rise of dictators, the destruction of democracy and the specter of another World war have one underlying cause: the failure to produce enough real wealth to support a secure and high standard of living."

"If there is plenty to go around," he said, "there is security, happiness and tolerance through the nation. But when there is not enough, people reluctantly turn to some public authority, which . . . uses its control to divide what there is. But dividing or sharing wealth is not a solution. . . ."

He warned that the nation faces a day of reckoning.

It may not come this year or the next, he said, but "the cold, inescapable truth stands before us. The American standard of living today is supported by an enormous mass of outworn public and private debt."

'MISUNDERSTOOD,' ROOSEVELT'S WIFE SAYS ON DIVORCE VIEWS

(By United Press)

BOSTON — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today attributed criticism of her stand on divorce to "pure misunderstanding."

During the second diocesan congress here this week, Mrs. Charles Feehan, president of the League of Catholic Women, criticized Mrs. Roosevelt for, she said, calling divorce "an accepted fact in American life."

Mrs. Roosevelt said at a press conference today that she believed Mrs. Feehan had based her speech on the first lady's article in the Ladies' Home Journal.

"That was only a partial quotation." Mrs. Roosevelt said. "I think it was pure misunderstanding."

Mrs. Roosevelt read from a copy of the article this paragraph:

"Divorce is necessary and right, I believe, when two people find it impossible to live together . . . if religious rights do not forbid it under any circumstances whatsoever."

Mrs. Roosevelt emphasized that she was "not answering any individual."

"I'm not mentioning any reference to any person and have no feeling on any opinion expressed." she said.

Asked to comment on Mrs. Feehan's assertion that "it is most unfortunate, unfair and dangerous for the wife of the president of the United States to make political pronouncements that give offense to large part of our citizens." she said:

"That is up to the public. Everyone has a right to his own opinions and a right to say them."

She arrived here to address Simmons college alumnae tonight on "The Problems of Youth."

FLINT'S JOBLESS WORRY OVER PLAN TO PURGE CITY OF 12,000

(By United Press)

FLINT, Mich.—The city's unemployed, representing one-third of the population, viewed with mixed emotions today the plan of Welfare Administrator Lewis J. Ludington to repatriate 12,000 families—the newcomers by force, the others by persuasion.

There were families like that of William Dye, his wife and three children, who were routed from their little western Nebraska farm by dust storms and feel they cannot go back.

"We sold the farm for a little money and came here where I got a job as a mechanic." he said. "I was laid off a couple of months ago because business was so bad. If we have to go back to Nebraska I don't know what will become of us."

The Dyes are on Lundington's relief rolls.

There were others like John Black, 83 and toothless, who lives with his son's family of eight in a four-room apartment. He thought the "deportation" idea was "great."

"For years," he said, "I've been trying to get back to Huntington, W. Va., but I've never had enough money.

The situation in Flint was caused by a slackening in automobile production, which is its livelihood. The population is 165,000, one-fourth of who came here since 1934, many from the midwestern "dust bowl." There are 12,500 bread-winners for 48,000 persons now on relief. Another 10,000 have WPA jobs. Ludington said General Motors had advised him that all its plants probably would be closed for the summer by July 1, throwing another 12,300 families on relief, and that employes with less than two years seniority should expect to be out of work permanently.

FILE CHARGES

3 Chiropractors, Psychologist Cited by State Inspector.

Affidavits charging illegal advertising were filed in common pleas court today against three Mansfield chiropractors and a fourth practitioner listed as a "psychologist."

Signed by Laurence A. Dietrich invesigator for the state medical board, the affidavits name Mrs. Flo A. Morris, Glen G. Arnold and Benjamin L. Sites as chiropractors and David E. Jones as a "psychologist."

The charges accuse the defendants of announcing themselves as "engaged in the practice of medicine before obtaining certificates from the state medical board."

Jones is accused of using the words "healer" and "suggestive therapeutics" in a diploma "to induce the belief he is engaged in medical practice."

Mrs. Morris, Arnold and Sites previously had been assessed $25 fines in municipal court for illegal advertising

PASTOR DIES

Galion Learns of Death of Rev. E. C. Thompson, 72.

GALION—Word has been received here of the death of Rev. Emory C. Thompson, 72, retired Baptist minister of Kingston, Mich., who had served as pastor of the First Baptist church of Galion from 1923 to 1930. He died Wednesday afternoon in Florence, S. Carolina. Rev. and Mrs. Thompson had been spending the winter in Florida when he became ill.

Rev. Thompson had his last pastorate at Newcomerstown where he had gone from Galion.

He is survived by his widow; two sons, Dr. Alfred Thompson of Chicago, Ralph Thompson of Massachusetts, and a daughter, Mrs. Flora Reed of Kingston.

Clark Gara of Kingston, grandson of Rev. and Mrs. Thompson, and also a former Galion resident, was accompanying his grandparents home from Florida.

FIRE DAMAGES BARN

SHELBY — Damage estimated at $10 was done Thursday by fire in the barn on the property of Jake Lewis, Monroe avenue, Fire Chief Eugene Schull stated today.

FORM COMPANY

Incorporators Plan Market for Farm Produce.

SHELBY—A United Press dispatch from Columbus today announced the incorporation of the Co-operative Milling and Marketing company, to be operated on a non-profit basis.

The incorporators, the dispatch said, are Paul L. Chase of Cleveland, Norman Gannett of North Fairfield, Steven Dalton of Shiloh and B. A. Metzger and Atty. W. R. Morris of Shelby.

The purpose of the company, Atty. Morris said, is to provide a better outlet for farm products. The company also plans to manufacture soy bean oil.

The site of the plant has not been selected, Morris stated, but added that it would probably be in Shelby, with a branch in New Washington.

SCHOOL HEADS CONVENE

A number of elementary school principals from Mansfield and Richland county today planned to go to Columbus for the annual conference of Ohio Elementary Principals. Sessions will open tonight and close Saturday afternoon.

Among those from Mansfield who will attend are Glenn Robinson, principal at West Fifth street school, and R. R. Spetka of Bushnell school.

LA FOLLETTE'S DEMAND THREAT TO NEW DEAL

Progressive Party Proposal Seen Menace to Roosevelt Political Forces.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — La Follette demands for party realignment behind a new banner of progressivism raised a threat of serious schism today in the political forces which President Roosevelt welded into a huge Democratic majority.

To what extent will the Democratic party leadership, its ranks dissession-torn and rebellious, be able to retain support of 1936's mixed political bed-fellows?

Will John L. Lewis' CIO walk out with the La Follette group into "the national progressives of America?"

Will the American labor party heed the La Follette call to abandon "reactionaries in both old parties?"

On answers to such questions hinged the success of the new Progressive party, Democratic chances to retain the White House in 1940, Republican opportunities to build upon slender congressional minorities toward capturing the national administration two years hence.

Involved in the outcome, too, was the possibility that events might draw Franklin D. Roosevelt into a third term race.

This possibility already had been mentioned by Senator Norris, Nebraska independent who supported the senior Robert M. La Follette when he sought the presidency on a Progressive ticket in 1924.

Makes No Comment.

Norris has supported Democratic presidential tickets since that time. He had no immediate comment on Gov. Philip F. La Follette's announcement in Madison, Wis., last night that a national Progressive party had been formed.

One of the first reactions to the governor's address to 5,000 followers brought an interpretation that the La Follettes must expect to draw heavily on 1936 Roosevelt supporters for party recruits.

Senator Pope (D., Idaho), staunch administration supporter, expressed the belief that the progressive movement would not gain much headway this year "because it would have to draw from the strongest supporters of the president." But Pope added:

"If in 1940 the conservative Democrats are able to nominate a candidate for president and gain control of the party, I would expect a powerful third party movement to develop."

La Follette spoke of the president's "brilliant leadership," blamed party dissension for hamstringing his administration, and summed up by saying leadership alone "cannot mix political oil and water."

In the same vein was the statement here of the governor's brother, Sen. Robert M. La Follette, that the issue posed was between "progressives" and reactionaries in both the Republican and Democratic parties.

Similarly, Circuit Judge Alvin C. Reis, chairman of the Madison meeting, referred to Mr. Roosevelt as "one of the great presidents of the United States."

Senator King (D., Utah), a member of the Democratic conservative bloc which has opposed some major Roosevelt recommendations, predicted the La Follette movement would "not make much headway" because "there is no reason for a third party unless it is one which wants to go clear over to socialism or communism."

Kennedy Leaves Race to Davey, Sawyer; See Taber Run

SECRETARY OF STATE TO STAY OUT OF FIGHT

He'll Seek Present Job Again; GOP Hears Grange Leader Would Oppose Bricker.

(By United Press)

SIDNEY—The Democratic primary contest for the nomination for governor became a two-man fight today as William J. Kennedy, Cleveland, eliminated himself as a possible candidate and announced he would run for re-election as secretary of state.

Kennedy made his announcement at a Democratic rally here and thus left the gubernatorial field to Gov. Martin L. Davey and Charles A. Sawyer, both of whom have declared their candidacies.

Kennedy, thus far unopposed for the nomination for secretary of state, said his decision not to run for governor, was made "in the interests of peace and harmony, the Democratic party, and the people of Ohio."

Might Run In '40.

He indicated that he might run in 1940. Saying that he hoped "sometime to be elevated to the important office of governor.

"In this important decision that I have been called upon to make," Kennedy said, "I want it clearly understood that the decision is mine and mine alone, and has not been influenced by either the newspapers, the political leaders, or the announced candidates for governor.

"All the money in Ohio and all the glowing promises of conniving politicians would not be enough to have me consider myself being used as a 'cat's paw' or a 'stalking horse.'

"Believing as I do in the principles of democracy, I have as much right to seek the office of governor as any other individual in Ohio and believe that I would take to that office a wealth of experience that would be extremely valuable to the chief executive. Unfortunately for me, public opinion to some extent is still controlled by propaganda and propaganda costs money."

CONSIDERS G. O. P. RACE

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Plans of a strong Republican bloc to make John W. Bricker their party's nominee for governor without opposition encountered today the threat of an obstacle in Louis J. Taber.

The master of the National Grange, it was learned reliably, is considering whether to become a candidate and is expected to reach a decision after his return over the wek-end from a two-week speaking tour.

A group of Republican business men was reliably reported to have pledged money to finance Taber's campaign, should he decide to seek the August primary nomination, despite the fact Republican central and executive committees in 63 counties have endorsed Bricker, the nominee in 1936.

This possibility of a change in the Republican primary picture arose as the Democrats settled down for a gubernatorial primary fight apparently restricted to Gov. Martin L. Davey and Charles Sawyer.

Ford's Speech of 23 Words Closes Newsmen's Parley

NEW YORK—(INS)—Big town and small town publishers were off to their editorial shops today after hearing the shortest speech ever made at an annual dinner of the American Newspaper Publishers' association.

"We are all on the spot," Henry Ford told them. "Stick to your guns and I'll help you all I can with the assistance of my son." Then he sat down.

The publishers, winding up their 52nd annual convention, had expected more from the motor magnate. They had looked particularly for a hint of what might have transpired at the luncheon meeting of Ford and President Roosevelt earlier in the week but they got none.

From District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey they heard considerable more. Revealing himself as one-time editor of country weeklies in Banner, Mich., Dewey spoke as one who had some knowledge of the press; its functions, duties and responsibilities.

"Hold everything on the dusters—we have 55 times as many as we need." It was Floyd Dent, area executive of the Boy Scouts, speaking. Dent requested through this column yesterday that if any Mansfielder had one of the old motoring coats in his attic, the scouts would like to borrow it for the Pioneer parade Monday. Before 4 p. m. yesterday Dent got his first offer of a duster, and by 8 p. m. he had 51 other calls. Three more offered dusters this morning. That's why he saying "hold everything, and thanks."

The undersize rifle the Union soldier on the monument in Central park holds in his hands was missing again today, but it wasn't stolen this time. Parks employes took the gun down to shine it up for Monday's Northwest territory celebration, because, they said, it should match the new coat of blue and gold paint the Civil war veteran is wearing. A gun was stolen from the monument several months ago, and the replacement is too short for the soldier's outstretched arms.

Consider the predicament of the well-known Mansfield matron who bought an umbrella recently, and thought she was exhibiting a stroke of bargaining genius, when she purchased one—a pretty white one—for a ridiculously low price. She took her purchase home, and left it unopened for three or four days. Then, in an idle moment, decided to inspect her purchase. She opened the umbrella, which worked all right, and was in perfect conditon—but imagine her surprise when she found, prettily decorating it, drawings of the Seven Dwarfs of "Snow White" fame.

Westinghouse Keeps Adjusted Compensation Going.

Although the business recession has reduced company profits, employes of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing will receive an additional one per cent of their regular monthly earnings this month, a company announcement said today.

It is the 24th consecutive payment since the adjusted compensation plan was adopted by the company in May, 1936. The total payment will be $60,000, of which Mansfield plant employes will receive $3,000.

A year ago, the adjusted compensation payment was 15 per cent, and the all-time high was established last August, when a 16 per cent payment was made.

BRANDS BRIBE CHARGE 'LIE'

Pennsy Governor Denies He Offered Margiotto Senate Seat as Persuader.

(By United Press)

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Gov. George H. Earle today denounced as a "contemptible and shameless lie," the accusation that he had offered a seat in the U. S. senate as a bribe to a political opponent.

Charles J. Margiotto, whom the governor removed this week as attorney general, said in a "report to the voters" by radio last night that "Governor Earle first tried to buy me off by telling me that James J. Davis, senior senator from Pennsylvania, could be bribed to resign, and that if I would withdraw as a candidate for governor and be appointed in his stead, the arrangements could be made."

Earle and Margiotti are candidates on rival Democratic tickets in the primaries two weeks hence. Earle is running for the senate seat held by Davis and he is supporting Charles Alvin Jones, a Pittsburgh attorney, for the gubernatorial nomination against Margiotti.

Sen. Davis is running for re-election on the Republican ticket.

Earle discharged Margiotti on the grounds that he had refused to publicize evidence to support his charges that two Democratic leaders had accepted $10,600 each to pass beer legislation in 1935. Margiotti said he was withholding the evidence to present it to a grand jury.

He said the reason he was fired was his insistence on convening a grand jury to investigate charges of graft and corruption that have featured the vitriolic primary campaign for a month.

BLOND ANNA WORRYING ABOUT SON, 12, AS DEATH DATE NEARS

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — While attorneys raced against time to keep Anna Marie Hahn from dying in the electric chair next Wednesday, her principal concern today appeared to be for her 12-year-old son, Oscar.

"She is concerned only with her child," Attorney Joseph H. Hoodin said after he visited Mrs. Hahn in Ohio penitentiary and informed her he had appealed to the office of Gov. Martin L. Davey for a commutation or reprieve.

A commutation would change the sentence of death to life imprisonment. A reprieve would postpone execution of the death sentence, providing more time in which to perfect an appeal to the U. S. supreme court.

Although Mrs. Hahn has a husband, Philip Hahn, a telegrapher in Cincinnati, she has committed her son to the care of her attorneys. Hoodin said. Mrs. Hahn married Hahn about seven years ago.

Oscar was born in Germany, where his maternal grandparents live.

Hoodin said Mrs. Hahn did not desire him returned to Germany in event she dies for the poison slaying of 78-year-old Jacob Wagner.

Asked if he intended to adopt the son of his client, Hoodin replied: "I can't say now." He has children of his own.

Oscar's step-father seldom has accompanied him on trips to see Mrs. Hahn.

Hoodin sought permission from Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of the Ohio supreme court to appeal to the U. S. supreme court. Ohio's highest tribunal refused to grant Mrs. Hahn a new trial and rejected her plea for a rehearing.

In event Weygandt denies his request, Hoodin said he probably would appeal to an associate justice of the U. S. supreme court for a hearing.

ILLNESS FATAL

P. J. Weuthrick, 54, Resident of City 35 Years, Dies.

Peter J. Weuthrick, 54, of Worthington township, died Thursday at General hospital after a four-month illness. Born in Winesburg, O., Mr. Weuthrick came to Mansfield 35 years ago, and had been employed at the M. Frank & Son brewery for a number of years.

Surviving are five daughters, Mrs. A. R. Gramley of La Crosse, Ind., Mrs. A. E. Garverick and Mrs. R. M. Neal of Mansfield, Mrs. Richard Tetzloff of North Judson, Ind., and Miss Eunice Weuthrick of Columbus; his mother, Mrs. Margaret Weuthrick of Worthington township; two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Taggart of Willard and Mrs. Margaret Hindman of Columbiana, O., and three brothers, John of Mansfield, Fritz of Ashland and Elmer of Coral Gables, Fla., and 11 grandchildren. He was a member of St. John's Evangelical church.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 3 p. m. Saturday with Rev. Paul H. Saleste of St. John's Evangelical church officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

GIVES CHARTER TO ENEMY OF LEWIS' UNION

Progressive Miners Chapter to Begin Intensive Drive to Enroll CIO Members.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The American Federation of Labor pointed the Progressive Miners of America toward direct conflict with John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers today by granting it an international charter.

The P. M. A. will begin at once a nation-wide drive for members, which may presage a repetition of Illinois' bloody coal field wars on a national scale.

Federation President William Green, who for 48 years was a member of the U.M.W.A., said that the main objective of the P. M.A.'s campaign would be to win members from Lewis' union, backbone of the rival Committee for Industrial Organization. He said that applications already had been received from 10 coal producing states.

Named Temporary President.

Joe Ozanic, Mt. Olive, Ill., will serve as temporary president of the international union until a convention is held soon to draft a constitution and elect permanent officers.

As he accepted the charter from Green, Ozanic issued a statement sharply criticizing Lewis and asserting that the enlarged P.M.A. will differ from the U.M.W.A. in these "four principles";

1. Complete autonomy for all local unions, districts, and subdistricts.
2. Elimination of the check-off method of collecting dues from union-operator contracts.
3. Rank-and-file referendum before the officers can lend or spend funds outside the P. M. A.
4. Rank-and-file referendums before strikes can be called.

"An extensive campaign will be started at once to enroll mine workers in the coal producing regions," Green said. "The new international union will also undertake immediately an educational campaign to acquaint the mine workers of America wherein their interest have been disregarded by the United Mine Workers of America, and how they will benefit by affiliation with the new international union."

NEW SHOP OPENS

Home Interiors to Specialize in Room Decorations.

Opening tomorrow at 76 North Main street is a new store for homemakers, dealing with practically all phases of interior decorating.

It will be known as the Home Interiors company. C. E. Sears, proprietor, has spent 20 years in floor coverings and draperies. He comes here from Akron. The store will handle floor coverings, curtains, draperies, Venetian blinds, window shades and slip covers.

J. E. Gresham, the manager, has been connected with department stores in Akron and Toronto for 22 years. Mrs. Carolyn Moore Butz, Mansfield woman who has been affiliated with the decorating departments of stores in Akron and New York City for 15 years, will supervise the decorating department of the new store.

A staff of mechanics for carpet and linoleum laying will be employed by Home Interiors, according to Sears.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Harry Daugherty, Boss of Other Days, Spends Last Days In Quiet Florida Sun

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

SARASOTA, Fla.—There was a gentle, kind old man stopping at the inn on the shore of the Gulf of Mexico a few days ago who somehow looked familiar and turned out to be Harry Daugherty, the attorney general and tough guy of the Warren G. Harding presidency.

Time has changed Mr. Daugherty. He is 76 years old now and softened up by the blows of personal and political tragedy. His wife died after 28 years of invalidism; his son, Draper, died some years ago, and of course the smash and scandal of the Harding administration left scars even on the cast iron hide of a man who was more furiously hated by more personal enemies, I suppose, than any other American since Abraham Lincoln.

* * *

I once was assigned to follow Daugherty to Miami and wherever else he might go at a time when there was some thought that he might jump the country and hole up in some banana port to avoid examination as a witness in certain phases of the Ohio regime in Washington.

Knowing that Daugherty was very sick, and wanting not to be a nuisance, I proposed to him after several day's surveillance that we make a deal. I was to let him alone and he promised to tell me in good time when he was leaving and where he was going. A week later he telephoned that he was going back to Washington that night, and that was all there was to it.

* * *

But the old man chuckled the other night as we sat in the dark on the front porch at the thought of a reporter trailing an attorney general of the United States who had William J. Burns and his department fly cops doing the same to many worthy citizens. He had J. Edgar Hoover, too, and Gaston Means, the foulest crook, at a rough estimate, that this country has ever produced.

Daugherty has been blind in one eye and deaf in one ear for many years, and now his good eye and ear are none too good. He lives almost altogether in the past now, in the company of men who have died since the Ohio crowd went whooping into Washington with prohibition and Wayne Wheeler.

* * *

In his time he ripped and slashed for power and came on to be the personal boss of a president of the United States, so it was a little comic that night when the woman with the little boy planned to go to the movies and the old-time tyrant told her to run right along and not worry, for he, Harry Daugherty, personally would sit up in the rocker in the dark at the foot of the little boy's bed and watch over him.

I mean no wrong to Daugherty when I say that irresistibly I was reminded of Damon Runyon's story of the retired safe blower and the kid, called "Butch Minds the Baby." He said the little boy looked just like his boy Draper at the same age, and he would sit in the dark and rock and cover him if he stirred or get him a drink—or anything.

* * *

Next day Karl Bickel came over—Bickel, the ex-president of the United Press, who also clawed his way to the top in tough competition, and then suddenly chucked it to retire to a drowsy, sunny little town 'way down the Florida gulf coast.

Daugherty and Bickel sometimes sat in the sun, two retired guys who were fierce and fast in action so short a time ago, talking of times gone past. And there was a man in the placid little community who went about leading a soft-eyed gentle old greyhound on a leash.

"Nice dog you have there," Bickel said. "Is he a racing dog?"

"He was," the man said. "His name is Smiles. He was a good, fast dog, but one night he caught the rabbit. After that they lose interest. They discover the thing they have been chasing so hard is just a phoney, and they just lie down in the box and watch the other dogs run, like saying, 'Go ahead and run yourselves ragged for a mess of hair and sawdust'!"

* * *

Both Daugherty and Bickel took a liking to Smiles, and he and they would stretch out in some shady spot, sigh deeply and go to sleep.

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The oddest literary office in town at present is on a movie set. Two writers and a girl secretary labor there, the click of the portable keys stilled at intervals while the current scene for the movie they're writing is being filmed and recorded.

The office is a canvas shack, about eight feet square. The writers are Bruce Manning and Felix Jackson. From the door, the scribes can peer out and see how the scene they've just written is being played, and see (more pertinently) how much longer they have to turn out the next.

All this sounds very much like the movie business as caricatured in those stage lampoons like "Once in a Lifetime" and "Boy Meets Girl." And yet—when the kidding's finished and you get down to facts—it isn't such a funny, inefficient mode of movie-making. If it is then it's the same that turned out "Three Smart Girls" and "One Hundred Men and a Girl"—and that, to movie fans and fainting bankers alike, should be argument enough that Henry Koster's way of making pictures is a good way.

The picture in question is "The Rage of Paris." That's the story in which Danielle Darrieux of France is bowing to the Hollywood cameras. She's getting $4,000 a week, and she was getting it all the weeks she waited while they prepared a story. That would be reason enough for haste which might make waste.

* * *

But from the movie point of view this Darrieux is a mighty important property. They couldn't rush into production with just any story, even to save time. Darrieux is with Universal for five years, and to realize the maximum return in five years the first picture has to be a smash. So they had not one, but two stories, ready to shoot before "The Rage of Paris" was selected as best for an introductory vehicle.

And now, even though they're writing as they go along, Manning and Jackson are writing from a finished script. A scene at a time—just a jump ahead of the camera, and sometimes only a 10-minute jump at that—they polish, revise, point up scenes, twist dialogue. From 7:30 a. m. to 11:30 p. m., they're with Koster who is a brilliant young director as his work attests. Each night they plan out with him the next day's shooting.

* * *

By all the laws this "Rage of Paris" set should be a madhouse, and it would be interesting to report that it is. The dull truth is that it's a pleasant place; that Miss Darrieux, who as a foreigner could "get by" with temperamental explosions, doesn't have them but persists in being agreeable, democratic, and unassuming; that the other actors—Doug Fairbanks, jr., Louis Hayward, Mischa Auer—uniformly respect and like Koster and his work with them; and that everybody's happy.

Before this reaches print, of course, I may be a liar but all that would be another story.

* * *

Director James Hogan is back from Texas where he went on location for "The Texans," a historical outdoor picture. Asked him if he thought he had an "epic." His reply.

"It better be. We've got stuff of a thundering herd going through a blizzard, through a brush fire, through dust storm, and through water. And we brought back four carloads of cattle—just for close-ups!"

HONOR BRIDES-ELECT AT EVENING AFFAIR

Miss Irene Holcombe and Miss Mary Lou Kaufman Entertained at Miscellaneous Shower, Bridge Party at Albers' Home.

ANOTHER party in the pre-nuptial affairs honoring Miss Irene Holcombe and Miss Mary Lou Kaufman was given last night at the home of Miss Elizabeth Albers, 30 Lexington avenue. Associate hostesses were Mrs. Henry Albers, jr., Mrs. Marlin Barnett, Mrs. Robert Miller, Mrs. Kenneth Wolf and Mrs. LeRoy Grant, Vermilion.

At the party, which was a miscellaneous shower for the two brides-to-be, there were 30 guests. Bridge was played during the evening. The house was decorated with numerous bowls of spring flowers and the table was centered with lilacs and tulips and lighted by white tapers.

The small tables had bud vases of tulips for decorations. Miss Kaufman, Mrs. Thomas Whorl and Miss Betty Hammel won prizes at bridge.

Presiding at the table when luncheon was served were the two guests of honor. A color scheme of silver and white was carried out in keeping with the bridal theme.

The hostesses presented each bride-elect with an end table as a wedding gift.

Tomorrow at 4:30 p. m. the marriage ceremony will be read for Miss Holcombe and George Park. They will be married in Bay Village. Miss Kaufman will become the bride of Ivan C. Bettiker, of Cleveland, May 7, at the Methodist Episcopal church of Leroy.

Invite Alumnae to Mather College For Celebration

Mansfield alumnae of Flora Stone Mather College for Women, Western Reserve university, Cleveland, have been invited to join in the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the school on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week in Cleveland.

Among the Mansfield women who have attended the college are Mrs. Ruth Seybold, South Main street, Mrs. W. E. Slabaugh, jr., R. F. D. 6, Mrs. Rowland Welsh, 203 Vennum avenue, Mrs. John Finefrock, 766 Park avenue west; Miss Florence A. Carpenter, 386 Marion avenue; Mrs. William Cutter, jr., 729 Highland avenue; Mrs. D. W. Horton, 195 Westwood avenue; Miss Katherine McNerney, Wood street and Miss Marian Grudier, 390 Marion avenue.

Miss Mary Carolyn Finefrock, whose mother also attended Flora Stone Mather, will graduate this year.

Classes will be open to visitors Thursday and Friday mornings. At 8:30 p. m. Thursday, there will be a glee club concert at the Florence Harkness memorial, and Saturday evening a formal dinner at Wade Park Manor.

The convocation of Saturday morning in Severance hall will be an outstanding event, with the two principal speakers, Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve of Barnard college, and President Ada L. Constock of Radcliffe college.

HEAR BOOK REVIEW.

"The Flags," written by Mary Roberts Rinehart was the subject of the book review presented by Mrs. E. A. Weakland at the meeting of the Joan of Arc Study club held yesterday. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Verba Kanary, Rae avenue. During the business meeting it was announced that the club would present the St. Peter's school library with a gift. Roll call was then held and the remainder of the evening was spent socially. The next meeting will be May 19 with Mrs. J. L. Kuneman, Wolfe avenue.

BETA SIGMA PHI WILL INITIATE AT DINNER

Mrs. John McCann Presents Paper on "Art, Sculpture and Painting"; Miss Jane Wagner Hostess to Sorority.

MISS JANE WAGNER was hostess last night to members of Beta Sigma Phi when Mrs. John McCann, guest speaker, presented a paper on "Art, Sculpture and Painting." She traced the historical development of the fine arts from the pre-historic and ancient times and illustrated with pictures some of the famous works of art.

Mrs. McCann, who is herself a painter, will become the adviser of the organization, it was announced. Mrs. William Holdsworth, who formerly advised the sorority, has recently moved to Philadelphia.

Plans were made for a Founder's day dinner and installation of pledges tomorrow evening. The meeting will be at the home of Miss Aleen Hughes and Miss Janet Olin is in charge of dinner arrangements. Those who will be initiated into the group are the Misses Wagner, Ardiss Linzee and Ruth Workman.

Luncheon was served following the meeting and Miss Florence Wagner, sister of the hostess, presided at the flower decorated and candlelit table.

The next meeting will be May 12 at the home of Miss Dorothy Bacon, Glenwood boulevard. At this meeting Miss Beatrice Kochenderfer will present a paper on music. She will be assisted by Mrs. G. W. Hall, pianist, who will illustrate the talk with piano numbers. Members of the Mt. Vernon chapter will be guests at this time.

Mrs. John Sensback, 199 South Main street, has returned to Mansfield after spending a few days visiting friends and relatives in Sandusky and Elyria.

Plan Open House, Election During Meeting of P.T.A.

A program and business meeting were included last night when members of the Western Avenue P. T. A. met at the school with R. D. Iden, president, in charge. Plans for an open house and election of officers were made for the next meeting May 12.

The recently organized school orchestra presented several selections under the direction of Sigrid Jorgensen. Mr. Joggensen then gave a group of violin solos.

Children of the sixth grade participated in a question bee and prizes were awarded to Susanne Sotherland and Barbara Shively. Parents and Mansfield singers concluded the program with the musical skit "Musical Adventures of Jack and Jill." Mrs. Charles Anglin and Mrs. Sherman Wentz were in charge of the playlet.

Cut Down Hips By Strenuous Exercise

By JULIET SHELBY
(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

YESTERDAY strolling up Fifth avenue and loitering down Fifty-seventh street, in New York, this department virtually was watering at the mouth. Of all the delectable things that have caught our fancy, the new spring clothes are first, middle and last. They are smart, they are youthful and they have that certain something that will make even the most staid one of us feel like a siren, and a wicked one at that.

But like so many good things, the new raiment has a slight catch before it can be perfect. It's pretty definitely demanding, and it hasn't the kindness to lumps and curves that the fashions of our grandmother's day had. Then three petticoats would hide a world of bulges. Today the clothes are cruelly frank. If you've got a bulge it's there for the world to see. So the result is we've got to make our shapes live up to our spring wardrobes. And if you want to be streamline by summer, now is the time to begin.

Chubby hips are the most prevalent of women's bete noirs. For as go the hips so goes the figure. And the most painless as well as least harmful way to pull yourself back into shape is by exercise.

This is one of our favorite hip reducers, and it has been used with terrific success in a noted New York gymnasium. It subdues and flattens the contours along the side of the upper thigh and over the hip joint. If you are really a brave girl this workout can be done on a heavily woven mat. Exercising on the mat will give you a stimulating massage at the same time. But if you are more timorous, skip the mat and use the floor.

Going Into Action.

Off with the outer garments and into action: Lie on your back with the arms out to the side, pull the right knee up to the chest and swing it across to the left side of the body, then straighten back to the first position. Repeat this with the left knee, alternating every six times. Do this twelve times with both legs. Then rest a minute.

Next lie on your right side, with the right arm under your ear and the left hand flat in front of the body for balance. Pull both knees up to your chest, then extend them straight out in front of the body, then back. Repeat this four times on the right side, then turn over on the left side and do the same. Eight to sixteen times will be enough.

Third movement: lie on your back with the arms out to the side, keeping the shoulders flat on the floor, pull both knees back to the chest and roll the knees over to the right, then to the left. Continue to roll eight times and don't be surprised when you find you have traveled down the floor.

Don't be downhearted, there's only one more and the reducing is over for the day. Sit with your hands back of the hips, and the right knee bent up to the chest. Keeping the right knee bent, swing it over to the left side as far as it will go. Then straighten the right leg downward, and as that leg straightens out, the left knee bends back to the chest and swings over to the right side. Then it straightens. The whole movement is a continuous one of rolling, with pressure on the buttock muscles and criss-crossing of the legs. Ten times and you are through.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

KEEP ADDING THIRTEEN

Good card reading is largely a matter of adding up to thirteen in one suit after another, until you have the hidden hands completely tabulated. Whenever one hand ceases to follow in a certain suit, you can immediately figure the number of that suit left in the other hand, by merely subtracting the known cards from 13. By repeating the process, you can point the way to all sorts of plays, including squeezes and lead throwers.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

After an opening bid of 2-Spades by South on this deal, North responded with 3-Hearts. South then bid 4-Clubs, North 4-Spades, South 5-Hearts, North 6-Hearts and South 6-No Trumps.

The diamond Q was led by West and won by South with the A. A. club was led to dummy's J to take a spade finesse. When West showed out, declarer decided to find out a little more about the distribution of the other suits, before conceding a spade trick. He cashed his clubs A, K and Q and followed with the hearts A and Q. It was now evident that West held six clubs, and that East held five hearts. At this point, East held in spades the K-9-5 and the hearts J-10. When a diamond was led to the K, East had to unguard one suit or the other. He actually let go a spade so that South cashed the heart K and then finessed a spade. The A then dropped East's K, so that the remaining tricks were South's.

"Adventures of Marco Polo."

A cavalcade of romance, splendor, excitement and fun will move across the screen of the Ohio theater Saturday when the film "The Adventures of Marco Polo," makes its debut. The production offers Cary Cooper in leading role as the swashbuckling adventurer who as the world's first traveling salesman, opened the first important trade route between Europe and Asia during the colorful reign of the great Chinese Emperor, Kunlai Khan. When the story opens young Marco is sent by his father from Venice to China. Upon his arrival there he meets and falls in love with the Khan's daughter (Sigrid Gurie), pursued by Saracen, Ahmed, who determines to do away with Marco. The series of adventures that befall Marco before he returns to Venice makes an entertaining story. "Test Pilot," with Clark Gable and Myrna Loy plays through today.

"Her Jungle Love."

An alluring and mysterious island in the South Seas, filmed for the first time in technicolor, forms the background for "Her Jungle Love," opening as a midnight matinee at the Madison theater Saturday at 11:30. The film, with Ray Milland and Dorothy Lamour in the principal roles, tells the story of a young aviator who is cast away on a deserted island only to discover that its only other inhabitant is a lovely girl who has never before laid eyes on a white man. The story reaches a thrilling climax when the ruler of a native tribe of an adjoining island sentences Milland to death in the crocodile pit. Supporting the two are Lynne Overman, J. Carrol Naish, Dorothy Howe and Jonathan Hale. The attraction through Saturday matinee is "Battle of Broadway."

* * *

"International Crime."

The story of how a newspaper and radio crime commentator solves a robbery at the home of an international banker comes to the screen of the Majestic theater today in "International Crime." Rod La Rocque, Astrid Allwyn, and Thomas Jackson head the cast. La Rocque plays the role of the crime commentator and suddenly finds himself involved in the crime even though he knows nothing about it. Bill Boyd and Judith Allen are in the featured roles of "Burning Gold," the second attraction. The film centers around Boyd who strikes oil on the western plains to become a millionaire over night. He goes to the city for a vacation and ends up broke.

* * *

"Arizona Gunfighter."

Bob Steele rides the range again in "Arizona Gunfighter," opening at the Ritz today. Steele is cast as a young cowpuncher who after avenging the ruthless murder of his father is forced to join up with an outlaw gang. He and the gang leader become fast friends, and the latter decides to break up the gang, never to ride again. The leader gives Steele a ranch and disappears. Later the gang starts ravaging the countryside again. Steele investigates and finds that the leader has been jailed for a murder he didn't commit, so he starts out to round up the gang. Claire Trevor, Sally Blane, Douglas Fowley and Bill Robinson are in the other feature, "One Mile From Heaven."

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"What is it, Auntie Madge?" Mary whispered fearfully as I sprang to my feet with an exclamation of anger at the end of my cogitation over the diabolical plan of her father-in-law to have her register a complete failure of her role in my play.

"It isn't bad at all, Dearest," I answered, salving my conscience with the truth that Philip Veritzen had made her technically perfect in the role while depriving it of any touch of life. "Technically it is perfect, as only Phil Vertizen's training could make it. But—can you stand a cruel truth?"

"Yes."

The monosyllable came from stiff lips, and I delayed no longer in applying my scalpel. It was no kindness to her to delay the swift slash which must precede my plan to save her role.

"I am sure that your father-in-law has planned deliberately to have you fail in that role at the first rehearsal."

"O-h!" Mary's hand flew to her throat as if she were freeing it from some constricting bandage, but I swept on relentlessly.

Devilish Scheme.

"It is simply devilish the way he has managed to make you an automaton, speaking lines without a single spark of life in the rendition, while still using perfect technique. The question is—"

Mary interrupted me with a wailing cry.

"I suspected it all along," she said, "but I was helpless. Well!"—she flung the word out despairingly. "I guess that's the end of Mary Veritzen, actress. When Phil Veritzen lets you out, nobody else will pick you up. I'm a washout, and I'd rather get busy washing dishes—no pun intended, I assure you."

She gave a bitter laugh, and I went up to her and, taking her firmly by the shoulders, gave her an affectionate, little shake.

"Did I say you were a washout?" I demanded. "Did you get any intimation from me that this thing was finished?"

The desperation in her eyes was suddenly shot through with a gleam of hope.

Won't Be Beaten.

"What do you mean?" she quavered. "Oh! darling, wonderful Aunt Madge! Are you planning something for me?"

"Of course I am," I answered. "Do you think that I am going to sit by and see Philip Veritzen succeed in this plan? Not in a thousand years!"

"But—I know you are the most resourceful woman in the world, but what can you do against Philip Veritzen, the most powerful theatrical producer in the country? I know you could wheedle him if anybody could, but aren't you afraid this thing has gone too far for even your cajolery?"

Mary Is Game.

"This isn't a question of cajolery or wheedling, Mary," I told her grimly. "We're going to beat Philip Veritzen with his own weapons. Have you the courage to go through with it?"

The gleam of hope in her eyes was brighter now, and her face crimsoned with excitement.

"I'm game to do anything in the world you want me to," she said. "I'd go through hell fire to beat that foxy old devil at his own game."

"You'll probably think you're experiencing exactly that before we get through," I said grimly. "Now, suppose we sit down and lay our plans immediately, for we shall have to work hard and fast in the next few days. We won't have any time for recreation, and we shall only leave the hotel for occasional walks in the fresh air and visits to the gymnasium.'

"Our friend, the detecatuff, will have an easy job, cooling his heels in that doorway across the street," she commented flippantly, and I noted with approval that her volatile spirit had risen as fast under my encouragement as it had descended at the news of her father-in law's diabolical plot against her.

She put two chairs against each other and, putting me into one, seated herself in the other.

"I'm all ears," she said. "Go ahead! Shoot the works!"

My Neighbor Says:

If a custard curdles in cooking, you have only to place the saucepan over cold water and beat it with an egg beater till smooth.

To make baked potatoes dry and mealy, put a fork at least twice into each when they are tender and let the steam escape.

Never cook meat or fish too rapidly. Sear it first to retain its nourishing juices, then cook or simmer it slowly to make it tender and appetizing.
